Coalition Plan Is Outlined at Badger Confab Of Two Parties

Would Back Leading Foes of Progressives in Primaries

RESOLUTION IS UP
Campbell Is Permanent Chairman of State Conference

Madison—(P)—The anti-LaFollette political conference, composed almost entirely of Democrats and Republicans, voted today to set up a committee which will call a meeting at Stevens Point within three weeks to create a permanent organization.

Madison—(P)—Sponsors of a coalition movement against Governor LaFollette in 1938 tentatively proposed today that the coalition run candidates in the 1938 Democratic and Republican primaries and support those who receive the largest number of votes, regardless of party lines.

A resolution to this effect was to be presented to the meeting of Democrats and Republicans which was held here on the call of members of both parties.

J. J. Kerwin, Milwaukee Democrat, presided at the conference which was attended by approximately 100. He said the group would be asked to create a committee of 60 persons to promote the anti-LaFollette drive in both parties and to select candidates.

William J. Campbell, Oshkosh Republican, who has been mentioned as the likely head of the coalition committee, was elected permanent chairman of the conference.

Kerwin emphasized that the conference was not called to select candidates, nor to determine any political policies except those affecting the election of the five major state officers from governor down. National politics, he said, is not involved.

"In this movement we have not had the support of the so-called Democratic and Republican leaders, the state chairmen," Kerwin said. "Where they have not been vocal in their opposition, they have effectively opposed by their silence."

Chinese Government Is Moved to Chungking but Nation Won't Surrender

PREDICTED SLAYING

Cedric Adams, Minneapolis newspaper columnist, wrote nine days before Patrick Corcoran, labor leader, was slain that "a prominent labor leader in Minneapolis will be taken for a ride" within two weeks. Police were seeking clues to the killing in inter-union strife which began several years ago.

Duce Announces Drastic Changes In His Cabinet

Mussolini Himself Assumes Ministry for Italian Africa

Rome—(P)—Premier Mussolini today announced a shakeup in his cabinet and an important change in colonial administration in which the duke of Aosta was named viceroy of Ethiopia and he himself assumed the African portfolio.

The 39-year-old duke of Aosta, a tall officer of the air corps who helped conquer Ethiopia, was appointed in the place of the veteran colonial warrior, Marshal Rodolfo Graziani. Aosta is a first cousin, once removed, of King Vittorio Emanuele.

In taking charge of the ministry for Italian Africa, Mussolini replaced Alessandro Lessona. The duke honored General Attilio Teruzzi, a veteran of the Spanish campaign, by naming him first assistant in the African ministry.

Finance Minister Theodor De Rezel, Jr., was replaced by Felice Guarnieri, who had been his undersecretary. Renato Ricci, former head of the fascist youth organizations, became an undersecretary in the ministry of corporations.

By today's shakeup, Mussolini assumed the fifth of fourteen portfolios in the cabinet—besides the premiership. He is now minister of interior, war, navy, air and colonies. Putting his strong hand directly on Italy's new African empire, he duce announced important changes would be made toward consolidation in administrative affairs.

The installation of Guarnieri as finance minister indicated the importance the premier expected financial affairs to play in empire development. Guarnieri had been director of foreign exchange operations.

Thousands Quit Work to Be Present at Rites For Corcoran

Minneapolis—(P)—Thousands of union workers left their jobs today, halting trucking in Minneapolis for three hours to jam the bascule of St. Mary in funeral service tribute to Patrick Corcoran, their slain leader.

Milk wagon and creamery drivers in white coveralls stood beside mourners in black. Union buttons were prominently displayed on heavy overcoats of men who bared their heads in below-freezing weather.

Japanese Report 15 Soldiers and Officers Captured Soochow

Nanking—(P)—The Chinese government formally announced removal of the nation's capital today to Chungking in Szechwan province.

Government officials, however, reiterated their determination to resist the Japanese to the last man. Chungking, on the meandering Yangtze river west of Nanking, is about 750 air miles farther inland.

Full evacuation, however, was not expected at least for another week. (Dispersal of central government ministries and officials to several inland cities has been in progress for a week without a formal announcement of evacuation.)

Civil departments, the government declared, were withdrawing in order to conform to requirements of the present state of hostilities and to be more advantageously situated to direct national affairs and maintain prolonged resistance.

Will Not Surrender
"Upon the bodies of our heroic dead the foundation for a new, independent China is being firmly laid," a government statement declared.

"Our submission to Japan neither would be compatible to our national existence nor consonant with the maintenance of international justice and peace."

With the evacuation of government offices almost complete, authorities began a systematic stripping of valuable equipment, machinery and furnishings.

All was to be moved away, leaving Nanking only an empty, nominal capital should the Japanese occupy it.

There were no signs of civil disorder. Ranking Chinese generally were resolutely in favor of continuing the nation's defense. Informed foreign quarters expressed belief that any steps by the government toward accepting oppressive peace terms might split it into opposing factions.

Chinese Statement
How far authority would be affected by decentralization through removal of government offices from Nanking could not be determined.

"Japan is gravely mistaken in her belief that by pushing westward she can force Chinese acceptance of Japan's humiliating terms because China has fully made up her mind that her salvation rests in fighting the invaders to the last man," the statement declared.

"In her present struggle China has behind her the full sympathy of foreign nations and the solid support of her own people. There is no question that she ultimately

More Than 50 Hurt In Wreck of Train

Negro Killed in West Virginia Smashup; Others Likely to Die

Bluefield, W. Va.—(P)—Approximately 57 persons were injured and an unidentified Negro was killed in the wreck of a Norfolk and Western passenger train near here today. Physicians said they expected several of the injured to die.

Two passenger coaches and two baggage cars left the rails. One of the coaches carrying several women and children, rolled down a bank and came to rest on the edge of the Bluestone river.

The other three cars overturned on their sides across the tracks. The cause of the accident was not determined.

Ambulances and private automobiles from Bluefield, Pocahontas, Va. and other points brought the injured to hospitals here.

The coach which went down the bank was badly battered inside. Passengers were hurled violently about.

J. W. Dickinson, an employee at the Bluestone power house, crashed the locomotive next to him as he felt the coach overturning.

Higher Living Costs Inquiry To be Pushed

Trade Commission Prepares to Comply With Roosevelt Order

CONFERENCE TODAY
Action Apparently Indicates New Anti-Trust Legislation

Washington—(P)—The federal trade commission arranged quick compliance today with a presidential order for an investigation of higher living costs, an inquiry which many observers regarded as portending new anti-trust legislation.

President Roosevelt wrote Chairman W. A. Ayres of the commission that his attention "has been directed to reports of a marked increase in the costs of living during the present year, . . . attributable in part to monopolistic practices and other unwholesome methods of competition."

The letter asking for the inquiry and a report as early as practicable, reached Ayres too late yesterday for the commission to consider it immediately.

Ayres, however, called the members together today for a discussion of the probable scope of the investigation.

Long Investigation
While content to predict the length of the investigation, a commission spokesman said it would "run into months."

"Our report will be made as early as possible in 1938," he said.

This was taken to mean the administration would not ask for anti-trust legislation at the special session, as Mr. Roosevelt first recommended to the regular session starting in January. The justice department has been studying the anti-trust laws for months, preliminarily to suggesting revisions.

Ayres told reporters the commission has received "lots of inquiries" regarding increased living costs.

"I suppose the president has had the same complaints," he added.

The complaints, Ayres explained, were not concentrated on any particular line of industry, but involved "almost every line."

Mr. Roosevelt, on his recent trip to the west coast, advocated a wider distribution of the control of industry. In his message to congress Monday he suggested further study of means to check "threats against free competition."

Senator Borah (R-Idaho) contends lack of enforcement of anti-trust laws, rather than any weakness in them, allows monopoly to continue. He favors requiring interstate corporations to obtain federal charters, one requirement being that they refrain from monopolistic practices.

Pleads Not Guilty of Murdering Landlord

700 Persons View New Car Models at 1938 Auto Show

Luxury in riding seems to be the keynote of the 1938 model automobiles which are being displayed at the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Harold Pierpont, 3-day auto show at Armory G. The show opened yesterday and will continue through Sunday evening.

In general the new models follow along the same style of last year with lower sweeping lines, longer hoods and greater radiator beauty. Bodies are longer and wider to provide for larger interiors.

Interior appointments have been improved while minor changes in dash boards and steering wheels also add to convenience of the rider.

Salesmen are boasting of better performance by their machines. Driving is made easier on a number of models which have been equipped with a new type of rear spring and a change in gear shifts which are on the dash board or on the steering rod.

Other models have the headlamps pocketed in the fenders which better fit into the flowing stream lines of the cars and cut down wind resistance.

Menasha Man Taken For 'Ride', Knocked Out by Auto Thief

Menasha—Police today were seeking an automobile thief who Alex Konkell, Milwaukee street, reported took him for a "ride" last night, knocked him unconscious and took an automobile owned by Alfred Reed, Ripon, which Konkell was driving.

Konkell had driven Reed and Dr. G. Jensen to the Soo line depot where they left to attend the Minnesota-Wisconsin grid game, and then stopped at a restaurant before returning the car to a garage shortly after midnight.

According to his story, two men got out of a car with an Illinois license and one of them entered the Reed car saying, "I'm going to ride with you." Konkell was ordered to drive down Highway 114. Near a traffic light at Waverly beach Konkell was struck on the head and when he regained consciousness found he was lying beside the highway a quarter of a mile beyond the intersection. The car, a tan colored 1938 Chevrolet coupe, was gone.

A description of the car has been broadcast. Konkell described the man who rode with him as short and stocky.

Charges Dynamite Kept in Basement Of Union Quarters

Witness Names Two as Among Six Who Hid Explosives

Springfield, Ill.—(P)—A prosecution witness testified in federal court today that dynamite had been stored in the basement of the Progressive Miners of America headquarters here, two blocks from the courthouse square.

Andrew Skrivlevics of Springfield, the Progressive Miners of America field two of the defendants in the coal field bombing conspiracy trial, said he was among the six men who in April, 1933, hid boxes of dynamite under cartons of groceries in the P. M. A. basement. They were John Schneider and Dan Matay.

Also present, he testified, was Edris Mabie, Progressive organizer killed in the 1935 Easter Sunday riot.

Four days later, Skrivlevics said, the dynamite was gone.

He quoted Dan McGill, Progressive board member and another local defendant, as saying in August, 1934:

"We can't stop men from working by bombing their homes. We've got to take action against the railroads for pulling the coal out."

Seeking to impeach their testimony, defense attorneys have closely questioned former members of the Progressive Miners of America called as government witnesses in the trial.

Two of them, grilled on cross examination, said they were paid $350 each when they left the P. M. A. to return to the older union, the United Mine Workers.

Former Progressives have testified daily in the effort of Welly K. Hopkins, special federal prosecutor, to convict the 41 defendants of a conspiracy to bomb trains and railroad bridges in central and southern Illinois.

Roosevelt Confers With Acting Budget Director

Washington—(P)—President Roosevelt, kept abreast most of this week by a dental infirmity, felt so much better today that he arranged to go over with Daniel Bell, acting director of the budget, plans for next year's government expenditures.

The president set aside two hours of his morning for the conference with Bell in his study at the executive mansion.

Stephen T. Early, one of the presidential secretaries, said Mr. Roosevelt's temperature had returned to normal and that the swelling of his face which followed the infection tooth had greatly subsided.

Early said the president now is almost certain to carry out his plan to go to Warm Springs, Ga., for Thanksgiving.

Approximately 700 persons looked over the new models yesterday and officials expected the crowd to top the 1,000 mark this afternoon and tonight.

Manufacturers have not overlooked women's tastes, and several new body colors have made their appearance with the 1938 cars. Seat and interior coverings are blended with the body colors with added luxury appearance.

Along with better gasoline mileage, dealer representatives are boasting of a more silent ride which results from using all steel in frames and sound-proofing interiors.

Ohio Troops Prepare for Strike Action

Ordered to be Ready for Possible Service at Akron Plant

'OBSERVERS' SENT
U. A. W. A. Calls Meeting To Discuss Strike at Pontiac, Mich

Detroit—(P)—The high command of the United Automobile Workers of America, concerned over an unauthorized sit-down strike in the Fisher Body plant at Pontiac, issued a call today for an "urgent meeting" of the international executive board here at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Union officials said the board would discuss the "entire General Motors situation" including the resumption of negotiations on a new contract with the corporation.

General Motors Corp. officials have demanded renewed guarantees against "outlaw strikes as a prerequisite to continued negotiations."

Columbus, Ohio—(P)—Adjutant General Emil F. Marx said today that some Ohio National guard companies had been ordered to prepare for possible mobilization but that no units had been sent to Akron where a sit-down strike is in progress at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber plant.

"General Gilson D. Light and General William Marlin have been sent to Akron as observers," General Marx said, "and troops have been ordered to be prepared for an emergency mobilization call, but such a call has not been issued."

The adjutant general added he would discuss the situation with Governor Martin L. Davey before any further action and that the mobilization order would necessarily come from the governor who is commander-in-chief of the guard forces.

Akron, Ohio—(P)—Ohio National guard units prepared today for possible service at the Goodyear plant where a sit-down strike is in progress making 12,000 workers idle.

Company officials immediately said picket lines would be placed around the plant covering hundreds of acres in the heart of this rubber city.

Adjutant General Emil F. Marx at Columbus said while no national guard units had yet been sent here, the situation had been prepared for a possible mobilization call. Two national guard observers are on the scene here.

Marx said he would discuss with Governor Martin L. Davey today the situation and any orders for the movement of troops here would come from the governor.

Governor Davey during the steel strike last spring sent troops to struck plants to "protect the right of men to work."

Nearly all of the 300 to 600 sit-down strikers left the plant this morning, John D. House, president of Goodyear local No. 2 of the United Rubber Workers of America, announced.

House said he and other officers of the union ordered the plant evacuated and that all but a few, who refused to leave, came out of the plant.

The remaining were expected to come out later in the day, House said.

The sit-down strikers protesting against scheduled lay-offs, have completely paralyzed operations in all plants of the company affecting nearly 12,000 employees.

Pastor on Stand In Murder Trial

Denies He Killed Mrs. Dennis Kelly, Former Sunday School Teacher

Pittsfield, Ill.—The Rev. C. E. Newton took the stand in his own defense today to deny a state charge, backed by his own purported confession, that he killed his former Sunday school teacher, Mrs. Dennis Kelly.

Defense Attorney Daniel T. Johnson, asked him:

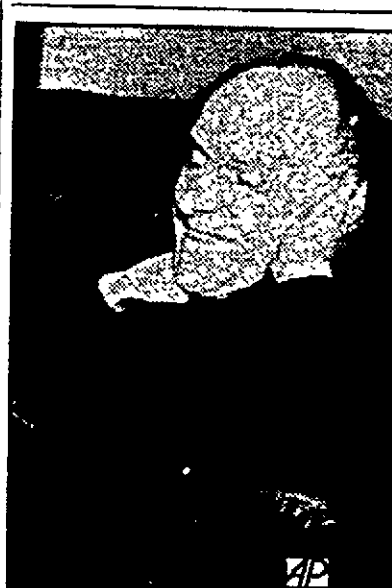

"Mr. Newton, when did you first become acquainted with Maybelle (Mrs. Dennis) Kelly?" bringing the slain woman's name into the questioning for the first time.

"After we moved to Paris, Mo., in 1923, some time after that," replied the minister.

"Will you tell the court your relationship with Mrs. Kelly?"

"I was asked to come out to her home, 'some time right away.' I want to have a talk with you. On my arrival she told me she wasn't happy as she, from childhood, had been used to doing what the church wanted. I learned for the first time she and her husband were not members of the same church."

Paris Ministries Guarded in Drive To End Conspiracy

Officials Try to Crush Armed Plot Against Security of State

Paris—(P)—Building housing France's ministries were carefully guarded today as Premier Camille Chautemps and Minister of Interior Marx Dormoy broadened plans to crush a reported armed conspiracy against the "security of the state."

An inspector of the Surete Nationale linked two bombs seized in one of a three-week series of raids with a bomb found Sept. 27 in the home of General Andre Pretalot, a member of France's superior war council.

Explosives experts at the time declared the bomb was constructed with materials regularly used by the French army.

The Surete inspector said "I would swear" that the two bombs found in a Paris apartment early this week "the same kind" as that discovered in the general's home. The inspector added they might be similar to bombs used to wreck two employers' federation buildings Sept. 11.

Streets near ministry buildings were watched closely after police were reported to have surprised four men inside the ministry of war on Wednesday night. The group escaped through a garden and scaled a wall.

The armed mobile guards posted around the government buildings permitted only officials or persons with passes to enter after 9 o'clock at night.

Surete Nationale operatives pressed inquiries in several sections of Paris and the provinces. Although no new arms caches were discovered, Surete officials declared the investigation would continue indefinitely, concentrated on "the men behind the plot and the origin of the money used to buy the guns."

Eight alleged undergrounds in the plot were known to have been imprisoned.

Southern States Have First Wide Cold Wave

Atlanta—(P)—The first hard freeze of the year nipped southern states from Texas to the Atlantic seaboard today in the wake of widespread cold rains.

Temperatures ranging from 22 in Atlanta to 14 in Kansas City were recorded. Snow sifted over upper Mississippi valley southward to St. Louis and eastward to New York and Pennsylvania.

Light snows fell as far south as Atlanta with the heaviest fall at Flat Top, W. Va.

Forecasters said the "worst is yet to come" in the south and added there was no chance of substantial change before Monday.

Minimum temperatures reported over the United States included Chicago, 18; Kansas City, 14; Memphis, 34; Washington, 34; Savannah, Ga., 34; Macon, Ga., 28.

Four Accused Under U. S. Neutrality Law

New Orleans—(P)—Walter Stauffer, great grandson of President Zachary Taylor and member of an old and prominent Louisiana family, and three other New Orleansians today faced charges of violating the neutrality act in an alleged plot to smuggle arms and ammunition into Honduras.

Estimate 1938 Expenditures Will Be $1,209,951

ADJOURN SESSION

Board Adopts Tax Levy Of $808,481 for Next Year

Outagamie county's million dollar, plus, 1938 budget providing for expenditures of $1,209,951.40 and a tax levy of $808,481.13, an increase of $188,439.30 over 1937, was adopted by the county board at its closing fall session Friday afternoon.

The budget includes $198,855.47 for highway department expenses and radio police and $1,011,095.93 as the remaining county outlay for other expenses.

Anticipated revenues total $401,470.22, which deducted from the total budget leaves $808,481.18 as the county tax levy.

"The increase crept in despite concentrated efforts of the supervisors to keep the budget down during the last two weeks. Several requested appropriations such as Appleton's request for $50,000 to pave connecting links in the Fourth ward and the highway department's recommendation for $100,000 for road oiling were slashed in half. A second request of the city for $50,000 for a station connecting link with Superhighway 125 was voted down.

Pension Costs
R. J. Pusch, auditor, in explaining the budget said the pension department would cost the county $118,500 next year. He estimated expenditures for old age, dependent children, blind and administration $112,500. State and federal aid will cut the amount by $194,000, he explained. Of the $160,000 outlay for old age, the state and federal governments will pay $115,000. Estimated cost of aid for dependent children is $120,000 of which state and federal governments are expected to pay $65,000. The estimated outlay for the blind is $14,500, of which $11,000 is expected from state and federal sources. Administration costs will be $18,000 of which the state and federal governments are expected to pay $3,000.

Accounting for a large portion of the increased budget were appropriations made since Jan. 1, 1937 which included 50,000 for road oiling, $15,000 for farm-to-market roads, $12,000 for county garages, $13,500 for county asylum addition and $6,000 for an airport hangar. These and other major appropriations since Jan. 1 amounted to $118,567.71.

General Government
General government appropriations include $11,000 for county board, $8,500 for county clerk's office, $7,500 for county treasurer's office, $2,500 for assessment of tax-exempt districts, $5,500, divorce counsel $1,300, county court $12,000, municipal court $16,000, circuit court $4,000, coroner $1,000, courthouse maintenance $9,000 and elections $3,500.

Appropriations for protection of person and property are sheriff's department $11,000, register of deeds $7,000, county abstractor $5,000, detention camp maintenance $3,600, park board administration $520, conservation work $300, taking of tax deeds $750 and motor police $12,000.

Under health, conservation and sanitation is included $1,400 for vital statistics, patients at state and other county sanatoria $1,550.73, county patients at the county sanatorium $20,593.06, public health nurse $2,000 and sewage system at county sanatorium $10,000.

Education Outlay
The education outlay provides for $5,500 for county superintendent of schools, county rural normal school $2,000, county agricultural agent $3,500, libraries $1,500 and aid to common schools $70,750.

Listed under appropriations for charities and corrections are $2,400 for supervisor of poor, service officer $2,400, outdoor poor relief $35,000, county physician $1,500, soldiers' relief $1,500, insurance outside institutions $10,813.39, county

Archbishop Warns Against Gambling At Church Benefits

Milwaukee—(P)—Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch in a letter to pastors of Catholic churches in the Milwaukee archdiocese has forbidden "chance games at church or institutional benefits or recreational activities at which the prizes given will be money or its equivalent."

"We understand how at such benefits and recreational activities there must be prizes," the letter said, "but we insist that these prizes be of such a nature that there can be no accusation of gambling in a real sense of the word."

The letter, under date of Nov. 15, warned "we shall not hesitate to impose canonical penalties on clerics who do not obey" the prohibition.

The Archbishop reiterated "our directions that there be no sale or distribution under any pretext on our parish or institutional premises of intoxicating beverages."

Bickering Marks Opening Week of Special Session

Congressmen Uneasy Over Business Conditions In U. S.

Washington—(7)—Wordy manifestations of uneasiness over business conditions exhausted today the first week of the special congressional session, during which the Roosevelt legislative program barely inched ahead.

Much talk and petty bickering furnished evidence that what President Roosevelt's opening message termed a "marked industrial recession" was for many congressmen paramount to matters for which they were summoned—crop control, executive reorganization, wage and hour regulation, and regional planning.

This sentiment centered in demands for removal of tax burdens on business, especially modification of the undistributed corporate profits and capital gains taxes now being studied by a house sub-committee.

Revision Certain Ultimate revision of some kind was a foregone conclusion after Mr. Roosevelt advocated "lightening inequitable burdens" on small business enterprises.

Tax revision appeared unlikely, however, before the regular January session. The week's virtual stillstand record appeared to place about half of Mr. Roosevelt's requests on the same waiting list.

Although farm bills were nearly ready for consideration in each house, floor battles were in prospect over such issues as voluntary versus mandatory crop control and processing taxes to finance increased costs.

Leaders foresaw a possibility of forcing a house vote on the wage and hour bill which the senate approved last summer. But ahead of senate action on two other administration measures—executive reorganization and regional planning—was the prospect of still more filibustering against the anti-lynching bill. A motion for its consideration had tied the senate up all week and it has the right-of-way once farm control is won.

Political Question Less clearly defined by the session's trend were the political significance of the interval since last session and the outlook for cutting spending below treasury income.

While congress was in recess Mr. Roosevelt traveled to the Pacific northwest, delivering 30 talks. Legislators had gone home after the party-splitting supreme court fight and returned worried by the business decline.

The special session began in much the same tone that the regular session ended last August: the legislative business was unorganized and frequent spats marked debate on the floor.

Apparently unchanged by the three-month recess were southern Democrats, among whom had been counted many court bill foes. They kept the administration wage-hour bill locked in the house rules committee; executive reorganization was blocked in the senate by their filibuster against the anti-lynching bill.

Reluctant to Vote None under the capitol dome foretold that this year's legislative regular session were legislative preludes to the 1938 elections. Congressmen had to make records on what had been obtained from Washington for the voters. The same members were asked to reduce spending and increase taxes if the new farm bill costs more.

The reluctance to vote taxes was demonstrated by the house agriculture committee rejection of a processing levy on wheat. Spending was entangled not only in relief but in the business recession.

From American mayors during the week came a request for more relief money if unemployment increases. CIO's Philip Murray voiced a labor demand for big treasury outlays to stimulate building.

In his message, Mr. Roosevelt emphasized the importance of increasing "the use of private capital to create employment." He coupled this with an expectation that the next budget "can be brought within a definite balance."

As time passed without any special sign of an economic upturn, however, there was a tendency among some at the capitol to point with greater frequency to another time in the president's message:

"If private enterprise does not respond, government must take up the slack."

Salvation Army to Feed 100 Needy at Thanksgiving Dinner

Captain T. A. Raber of the Salvation Army requested today that all citizens of Appleton who find it possible to do so cooperate with the army in the Thanksgiving dinner which it is planning to serve next Thursday noon to some 100 needy children and their parents.

He has already received contributions from the listeners of his Appleton Church of the Air, conducted each morning at 9 o'clock, over which he first made announcement of the dinner.

Names of families who will be unable to have special Thanksgiving dinners this year are being obtained through the relief department and other agencies. Since the dinner is to include traditional turkey, cranberry sauce, pumpkin pie and all the trimmings, the Salvation Army will need contributions of both food and money. A Thanksgiving program will follow the dinner at 2:30.

Captain Raber also made known today the need for donations of clothing at the temple. About 50 persons have come there during the last week asking for clothes. Many of them, he pointed out, are border-line cases not taken care of by the relief department.

Adjourns Hearing On Transactions Of Madison Firm

Receivership Action Pending Milwaukee Circuit Court

Milwaukee—(7)—The state public service commission's investigation into transactions of the B. E. Buckman company, Madison securities firm, was adjourned indefinitely yesterday by Fred S. Hunt, commission chairman.

Hunt said the hearing may be reopened at Madison or wherever necessary. No date was set.

A receivership action against the Buckman firm, brought by Percy H. Will, Pewaukee farmer, was scheduled for hearing in circuit court here today. Harvey E. Kaiser, Will's attorney, said the local action would be unnecessary if Circuit Judge A. C. Hoppmann at Madison named a receiver there. Yesterday Judge Hoppmann announced he had agreed to supervise an assignment of the Buckman company's assets for the benefit of the firm's creditors.

Withholds Records Earl Cooper of Madison, president of the Wells-Kendall company, also a Madison investment concern, refused at the hearing yesterday to surrender his company's records upon the commission's demand. He had been called as a witness.

Questioned by Commissioner Robert A. Nixon, Cooper revealed two Wells-Kendall officials have been in office only since Thursday. He said E. J. Crofoot, vice president, and Perry A. Stietland, secretary-treasurer, had been chosen at special election Thursday at Madison to succeed Miss C. E. Morken and Miss P. L. Seamonson, respectively.

Cooper said the two women are stenographers in the law office of Stephens, Stietland and Cannon, Madison. Stietland is an attorney for the Buckman company.

The Buckman company surrendered its license to sell securities in Wisconsin when the public service commission's hearing opened Monday. The license surrender followed closely upon the receivership action filed by Will.

Plan Hearing for Green Bay Harbor Improvement Job

Additional Information Will be Submitted to War Department

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau Washington—In view of additional data which interests in Green Bay wish to present on a proposed project for improving the Fox river at Green Bay, the board of army engineers has decided to hold a public hearing on modification of plans.

The war department has informed congressman George J. Schneider of Appleton that, although the district engineer has made an unfavorable report on a preliminary examination of the project, the hearing will be held on additional information. Date of the hearing will be announced after the Green Bay harbor commission has made arrangements with the district engineer's office in Milwaukee.

New evidence, Schneider was told, is now being collected, and Green Bay interests have offered to contribute to the costs.

In a letter to the war department, the Green Bay Harbor commission concurred with the district engineer that the proposed widening and deepening of the channel from the railroad bridge owned jointly by the Kewaunee, Green Bay and Western and Chicago and North Western railroads, to the mouth of the Fox river is not economically justified in the interests of navigation and flood control. These improvements, the commission agreed, would not justify the estimated cost of the proposed work in that section of the harbor.

The commission now seeks a modification of the proposed improvements to include widening and deepening the channel from the railroad bridge to the Main street bridge.

"This improvement is not only justified in the public interest but can be shown to be economically justified in the interests of navigation. It is so vital to the public welfare that local interests will participate in the cost," the commission informed the war department.

ermen representing the 11 Wisconsin counties affected by the proposed new regulations. The first two meetings accomplished little because of the strenuous disagreements between opposing factions of fishermen on policy. The last meeting was held Monday at Sheboygan, but the department has made no comment on the results of the gathering.

According to the department, fisheries officials are trying to cooperate in their new regulations with John Van Oosten, Great Lakes representative of the federal bureau of fisheries, who is anxious to obtain uniform regulations in the Great Lakes fishing states.

Perhaps you have hesitated to do something about your hearing because you didn't believe you really could be helped or because you thought any "hearing aid" would make you conspicuous or because you felt you "couldn't afford one."

Today thousands have found that none of these reasons stand in the way of hearing happily. The new, individually-fitted Sonotone Audicle brings hearing of almost unbelievable clarity and naturalness — even in extremely severe cases. Women wear this modern equivalent of spectacles completely hidden. As to price, there are very few who cannot afford this convenience. (Convenient budget plans, too.)

Don't you come in (or we'll call at your home, if you say so) and learn for yourself that it really isn't "too good to be true." A consultation and scientific fitting.

'Best' People of Miami Don't Rate With Pegler

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—A sudden access of righteousness recently prompted a band of Justice Black's native, white, Protestant ex-brethren in the sacred, unfeeling bond of klanishness to kick in a night club operating in the outskirts of Miami, Fla. The proprietor afterward claimed that the raiders indulged in a little incidental robbery listing among his losses $350 cash, a $7 watch and seven rifles.

This charge seems plausible. The grand dragon of Florida attempted to scoff it away with the assertion that the Miami klan includes some of the best people in town, which disproves nothing. The fact is that such gangs not only here but in Italy and Germany habitually use their patriotic pretense to disguise looting and often are inspired by the personal motives of individual members who may be unsuccessful business rivals of the victim or in debt to him or just plain thieves. Thus the early black shirts and brown shirts liquidated their competitive problems, compelled the cancellation of their debts by terrorizing their creditors and covered common stickups with a mask of civic duty. Thus, also, the Ku Klux Klan in the days when Mr. Justice Black found fraternity with those who, like burglars, operate by night, and, like burglars, go masked.

But to come to an understanding of the situation in Miami and vicinity it is best to eliminate both the charge of larceny against the klan and the claim that the mob contained the best elements of the community. The fundamental fact is that the best people of Miami for years have not only tolerated but aggressively encouraged the development of a major league underworld in a minor league city for the sake of the money to be made through political graft levied on notorious criminals from New York, Chicago and other big cities and for the incidental business driftings.

Politicians Sold Concessions For Violation of the Law The politicians frankly sold concessions for the violation of the laws, and the best people of Miami, mostly retail merchants or real estate promoters, agreed that this was necessary because otherwise the heavy spenders would avoid Miami. Some of the best people of Miami have participated in this system, politically and financially, for 15 years and have watched with pleasure and pride the growth of a system of corruption the like of which will not be found in any city of equal size in the United States.

They were pleased because they brought notoriety and money, which is the only god of the booster, and they were proud because they thought a real city incomplete without an underworld.

And their own underworld was, if not the cream, then the rich, heavy scum of all the underworlds in the country. It was a matter of naive satisfaction to the best people of Miami that such distinguished criminals as Al Capone, Lucky Luciano, Johnny Torrio and Dutch Schultz, chose to honor them with their presence and their professional interest, and they saw the creation, on the outskirts of their city, of a town called Hialeah, whose principal industry was graft. Hialeah, from the start, has been a rare political freak, an aggregation of rackets, organized into a municipality.

Of all this the best people of Miami have been well aware, and the system has ramified to such an extent that if the individuals who raided the night club were to be unmasked and reveal their identity a majority probably could be shown to have had more or less direct personal connection with the corruption of their town. In fact, if they had been clean and had possessed ordinary physical and civic courage it would not have been necessary for them to go raiding or to wear masks. They could have obtained evidence of crookedness sufficient to convict some of their local officeholders on many charges any time they resolved to clean house by legal methods if they had not been afraid to face investigation themselves.

Miami is a city so badly compromised that one of the most notorious racketeers that the country ever produced could go among her best citizens in the guise of a reformer and make another racket of reform. If the ex-brethren of the backslid associate justice of the United States Supreme Court had had any confidence in their own individual reputations under close inspection they would not have been afraid to show their faces at a resort subscribed by the local reform as a menace to the community.

Attorney General May Aid in Claims Of Oneida Indians

Tribe Unable to Enter Court of Claims Under Present Bill

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — If the land claims of the Oneida Indians are legitimate, as determined by an investigation now under way, the state attorney general's department will attempt at the next session of congress to have the federal jurisdiction act amended so that the Oneidas may press their claims in the federal court of claims, the attorney general's office announced here yesterday.

According to John W. Reynolds, Green Bay, special assistant of Attorney General Orland S. Loomis in charge of Wisconsin Indian affairs, the present jurisdiction bill is not sufficient to give the Oneidas the right to go into the court of claims, and even if the bill is amended to give them the right, federal practice requires that the tribe, by resolution of the council, must specifically authorize the attorney general to press its claims.

In a letter to William Skenandore of Oneida, Reynolds points out that the Oneidas, in order to bring their claims before the federal government, must do so by act of the tribal council. An individual member of the tribe, such as Mr. Skenandore, cannot do so.

Case Now Pending
Reynolds wrote that he has considered the case now pending in the federal court in Milwaukee in which suit was filed against Brown and Outagamie counties and two townships on ground that the Oneida reservation was illegally cut up. Indians claim that the United States government has no power to cut up a reservation created by treaty.

"I am confident," Reynolds said in his letter, "that the Oneida Indians have no claim against the county of Outagamie and the county of Brown, or the two townships."

He suggested that if the Indians feel that their property has been violated that a claim be filed in the federal court of claims.

Investigation of the Indians' claim is being carried on in Washington by R. H. Case, who has been retained by Attorney General Loomis. It has already been determined, Reynolds said, that the Oneidas do not at present have the right under the jurisdiction bill to enter the court of claims, but if Case finds that their claims are legitimate, the attorney general's department will aid in attempting to have an amendment passed by congress to allow them to do so.

Loomis announced here yesterday that he will take the claims of several bands of Chippewa Indians in northern Wisconsin before the United States court of claims and that he will propose an amendment to allow filing of those claims at the next session of congress.

Improvements are being made to the Lawrence college Women's Athletic Association Club room in the old gymnasium. The room, unused for years, will be made into a meeting place for W. A. A. members for games, reading and study. A small library will be maintained there.

Costs of the improvement will be paid out of the regular organization allowance and by a money-raising program which will be held this year, according to Alice Holloway, Glencoe, Ill., president.

Boy Scouts and Their Troops

It seems, apparently, that the snappy November weather is putting new life and vigor into our scouts for a great number of them are seeking a higher ranking and greater awards.

Several scouts from Troop 26 of Marion who are preparing for the court of honor to be held soon, received their coveted merit badges. The meeting was especially interesting since it was marked by a visit from Scout Commissioner E. E. Thomas. The remainder of the meeting was devoted to the singing of songs, discussion of the troop's paper-collecting project, instructions in the proper procedure of first aid administration, and the presentation of nominations for its super-exclusive Nut club. The Nut club is a distinguished organization despite its name according to Phil Bowers, the troop reporter.

The first aid study was held as a check-up on those members who are participating in the first aid contest which should be given to Quartermaster Bill Bertram and his assistants for their fine work of renovating the scoutroom.

At its last gathering Troop 16 of Appleton focused its attention mainly upon signaling and first aid procedure. A few games were played following the regular business meeting. New candidates to the troop are George Davis and

Waltonians Plan Winter Pheasant Feeding Program

Roosevelt Junior Conservation Group Builds Bird Feeders

With the opening of the club season at Roosevelt Junior High school this week, about 60 pupils registered to join the Junior Izaak Walton league and held an organization meeting Thursday.

Bird feeding will be one of the club's major projects this year and work has already been started on four additional pheasant feeders to be placed at various points of vantage in the county when completed. Last year the club placed four feeders.

Grain with which to feed pheasants will be obtained from the local conservation warden and weak-end excursions to distribute feed are being planned for the winter season. W. C. Pickett, club advisor, said today.

Pheasant eggs also will be obtained from the conservation department in the spring and will be distributed to members who live on farms and in the rural districts for raising. It is also planned to release pheasants at intervals.

Construction of two large bird houses for martins has been started in the manual training department by club members and will be placed near the school. Bird houses will be offered for sale by the club in the spring.

About 200 tulip bulbs were planted at the rear of the school building two weeks ago by members who also planted shrubs at the rear of the school. A conservation motion picture will be shown at the next meeting of the group.

Favor Rebirth of State Fair Trade Practice Codes

Barbers, Road Builders, Shoe Repairmen Express Attitudes

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)
Madison — Wisconsin's "little NRA" will soon be functioning once more, taking under its wing a good share of the service industries and small tradesmen of the state, it appeared here this week as the fair trade practice committee concluded its third public hearing.

So far barbers, highway contractors, and shoe repairmen have been summoned to present their views on the rebirth of codes to regulate their business activities, and according to testimony presented at exhaustive, lengthy hearings, sentiment in those lines overwhelmingly favors code government.

Spokesmen for the barbers, who in days ago mourned the price cutting, "chiseling," low wages, long hours and other unfavorable conditions in their business, were seconded here this week by highway contractors and shoe repairmen, who presented almost a united front for new codes.

Draft New Codes
Thus far the only opposition to code regulation on record has been furnished by a handful of Madison and Milwaukee barbers who claim that codes cut business volume, and force small wage earners to cut their own hair, and argued that economic conditions and not law must determine standards of prices.

In the meantime Director E. M. Rowlands of the trade practices department made plans for the selection of advisory committees of those industries who want codes who will begin work immediately in drafting regulations. The proposed codes will be submitted to the commission for approval, and will become effective only after they are signed by Governor La Follette.

Next week the department will hear testimony from the dry cleaning and dyeing trade, while others will be scheduled as requests for codes come in, he said.

Amazingly enough, among the requests recently filed are some from domestics, who, although unorganized, apparently desire standards of fair practices for their occupation.

May Delay Installation Of Christmas Decoration

Because a shipment of reflectors for floodlights has not yet arrived, installation of Christmas decorations on College avenue may be delayed for several days, according to Louis Luebke, electrical inspector. It had been planned to erect the decorations Monday. Each Santa Claus head this year will be lighted by an individual floodlight in addition to the string of colored lights.

The presentation of awards was an important part of the last meeting of Troop 20 of Kaukauna. Richard Hoehne received a merit badge for music, Henry Ashe was presented his Second class badge and Robert Daugherty was awarded his Star Scout badge. During the meeting Scoutmaster Wallace Mooney read several first aid problems for the patrols to work out. The time limit for the problems was seven minutes. After the problems were solved, the members were inspected by the scoutmaster and his assistants and the errors were discussed and corrected. The selling of craftstrips, link belts, and beads was also discussed by the scoutmaster. Plans for a hike to Rohan's woods then were discussed, and it was decided that Edgar Orpe should lead the trail. This tracking will be a contest between the north side and south side scouts.

Fine Black Creek Man For Taking Two Tires

The Dog Owner and His Dog

BY ALLAN KERR

Why have a dog club? Is it worth the time and effort required to organize such a group and keep it functioning smoothly? If so, will there be enough interest on the part of dog fanciers to maintain a live wire, up-and-doing dog organization?

These are the questions that a number of northeastern Wisconsin canine enthusiasts have been weighing carefully during the last few weeks.

They are the questions, the answers to which should be well established, if a dog club of the right sort is to result. They are the questions that a group of dog people did not consider wisely enough ten years ago, when the Northeastern Wisconsin Kennel Club got away to a beautiful start with its first annual A. K. C. licensed dog show in August 1927, only to drift into oblivion shortly thereafter. This show was held in Green Bay. There has not, to our knowledge, been a licensed show held in this section of the state since.

On Thursday, Dec. 9, at the Y. W. C. A. in Neenah, a group of dog fanciers of that city will be hosts to the men and women of this area who are interested in good dogs and who wish to discuss the above questions. It is our understanding that, should those present favor the plan, organization of a kennel club will get under way at this meeting and application to the American Kennel Club will be made for a license to hold a dog show.

Public Invited
Representatives to this meeting are expected from towns large and small, ranging from Marinette to Fond du Lac, and from Shawano to Sheboygan. Everyone interested can not possibly be contacted personally by those sponsoring the meeting, so you may let this be your invitation to attend.

It is suggested that small meetings be held in each town to discuss plans for attending the big Neenah session. When the number has been determined, the names should be sent to Otis Hayes, 812 Main street, Neenah, Wis., who will then be able to more easily make all necessary arrangements for the gathering. The meeting will start promptly at 7:45 in the evening.

It would seem that this session of dog folks has great light in an otherwise rather drab dog situation in this territory. From it should come a spirit of friendliness and warmth and cooperation among dog lovers that is sorely needed, if good dogs are to take their rightful place in a section of the country where leadership in other fields of endeavor are recognized throughout the nation. Let's get behind the idea and give it the much needed big push.

Recession Is Not Apparent in State

Bank Deposits Show Only Slight Decline Since Last Call

Madison — The state banking commission said today that the results of the call for the condition of state banks as of Oct. 16 indicates that Wisconsin business has not felt the current recession to any marked degree.

Deposits decreased only slightly since the last call on June 30, the commission said. The deposit loss amounted to $2,052,165.92 on a volume in excess of $382,000,000.

Individual deposits subject to check declined from $146,120,544.24 on June 30 to $139,457,041.71. Deposits of time certificates dropped from $50,376,742.65 to $49,472,074.69. The commission said that these decreases were partially offset by an increase in savings deposits which were $5,586,345.31 higher on Oct. 26 than on June 30.

The last call showed total resources of the state banks of $463,167,884.80 as compared with $469,324,011.75 in June.

The commission said a recent ruling of the attorney general that trust funds cannot be included in bank resources was largely responsible for this decrease.

Exclusive of trust funds the resources as of Oct. 26 this year were $1,085,239.99 in excess of the figure for Oct. 1, 1936.

TIRED EYES
mean TIRED NERVES

Most People do not realize that eyestrain causes a drain of nervous energy which can result in headaches, fatigue and actual bodily harm. Here is a two-fold recipe to help to protect against eyestrain.

1. Have Eyes Examined frequently!
A student who uses her eyes under poor lighting conditions for prolonged periods may suffer more nervous muscular tension than a person digging a ditch.

2. Make Sure the Lighting is right!
Next to good eyes, light is the most important factor in vision. Yet most homes today provide far less light than is needed for seeing without overworking the eyes.

Death of Hermes Was Accidental, Inquest Jury Says

Driver Testifies Front Wheels of Automobile Locked

A coroner's jury decided Friday that the death of John Hermes, 20, Little Chute, who died Nov. 6 following an automobile crash, was accidental.

The jury's decision was that "John Hermes, Little Chute, died Nov. 6 from riding in a Ford coupe with four persons on the front seat when it left the road and collided with a telephone post and rolled over several times."

John Hermes, brother of John and driver of the car, testified that he was traveling only 35 miles an hour at the time of the fatal crash and that his front wheels locked making it impossible to negotiate a curve. He said that he had had only three glasses of beer in two taverns that afternoon.

His testimony was corroborated by the Misses Florence and Verona Wilson, Stockbridge, who were with him when the crash occurred. Florence Wilson testified she had nothing to drink while her sister testified she had two glasses of beer.

The quartet was coming from Stockbridge towards Little Chute on the afternoon of Nov. 5 when the coupe, driven by Martin, failed to round a slight curve and went into the ditch near the Union cemetery just south of Kaukauna's city limits. Other occupants of the machine were only superficially injured.

The inquest was conducted by Raymond P. Dohr, district attorney, and Dr. H. E. Ellsworth, county coroner. Members of the jury were Marcus Baumgartner, E. L. Williams, Louis Bonini, James Geharz, Mike Jacobs and Theodore Verkuilen.

Light Snowfall Forecast Sunday

Little Change in Temperature Range Expected

By Weatherman

Appleton and vicinity were given a preliminary taste of winter weather last night when snow, although light, was swirled and whisked about city streets by a brisk wind. The weatherman says more snow than can be expected tonight and tomorrow, although flakes were clear today.

The light snow last night made driving hazardous today, but motorists evidently were operating their cars with care as only one minor accident was reported up to noon today. The temperature at noon was 25 degrees on the roof of the Post-Crescent building.

The temperature ranged from a minimum of 20 to a maximum of 24 degrees during the last 24 hours up to 9 o'clock this morning, according to readings taken at the power plant of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

The lowest spot in the United States last night was Devils Lake where the mercury dropped to 10 degrees below zero. Associated Press reports show while the warmest places were Phoenix and Miami where the maximum was 78.

Chinese Government Is Moved to Chungking but Nation Won't Surrender

can attain her object of maintaining her national existence and independence."

The statement paid tribute to Chinese defenders of Shanghai who, it said, held Japanese forces at bay for three months despite inferior equipment.

"Many of our soldiers, depending only on their blood and patriotism," it said, "defied the concentrated attacks of the Japanese army and air force, remaining at their posts even after their defense works had been demolished."

"AMAZING CAPTURE"

Shanghai (AP)—A Japanese army spokesman declared today that 15 Japanese soldiers under a second lieutenant captured Soochow, keystone of China's "Hindenburg line," without firing a single shot.

The spokesman declared the fall of Soochow, 50 miles west of Shanghai, was "one of the most amazing captures of an important city in all the annals of war."

According to this account, there was no real Chinese resistance at Soochow, considered the gate to Nanking, the Chinese capital, from which the government formally withdrew today.

The main Japanese force, expecting to be confronted by at least one Chinese division, was amazed to meet only small apparently dazed groups of Chinese soldiers, with loaded rifles and fixed bayonets, looking about Soochow as the Japanese marched in. None of these even questioned the presence of Japanese troops, the spokesman said.

Report Chinese Fatigued

The spokesman said the lack of Chinese resistance was due probably to extreme fatigue, owing to long forced marches from lines farther to the East. He declared the Chinese lacked spirit or energy to prevent anyone entering the town.

He said: "The Chinese line extending from Fushan (on the south bank of the Yangtze river some 40 miles above Soochow) to Soochow, which the Chinese boasted they would be able to hold for six months, broke down in exactly four days."

Three gaps in the Chinese defense system permitted Japan's legions to surge toward Nanking, some 125 miles northwest of Soochow.

While Soochow Fell Both Ends of the 'Hindenburg Line' Also

While Soochow fell both ends of the "Hindenburg line" also had been turned by the Japanese today, the 100th day of hostilities on the Shanghai front. Kashing, 25 miles southeast of Soochow, was in Japanese hands, the Japanese column had skirted Changshu, 25 miles to the north.

Declare Soochow Abandoned

Chinese did not deny the fall of Soochow. They said the vital defense center was abandoned after it virtually had been razed by Japanese aerial bombs. They declared their troops, however, still desperately defended Changshu, northern anchor of the line.

Despite a heavy toll of dead and wounded, staggering losses of material and great expense, the Japanese had 200,000 men, 300 airplanes and vastly superior tanks and artillery in the field.

Against them, after 99 days, were ranged 300,000 Chinese with a few planes and interior artillery.

The Chinese had the added advantage of fortified defense positions and familiarity with the lake-studded region. But they also had the handicap of disrupted communications and supply lines.

It Is Said--

That of all the presents received by Mr. and Mrs. Tad Meyer, Wisconsin Rapids, at their recent wedding here, one of the most prized is the clock given them by Dr. J. B. MacLaren from his fine collection. It needs to be wound only once a year, and they are planning to do it on the day of their wedding anniversary each year.

That the generosity shown by Supervisor Jess Lathrop, Hortonville, in passing around cigars at the county board session yesterday let him in for no small amount of banter. He was repeatedly asked what he was celebrating. Evidently undisturbed by the remarks, Lathrop merely shook his head and offered no explanation.

That residents living at the east end of College avenue will welcome the close of the navigation season on the Fox river. Warning signals sounded by the tugs in the wee hours of the morning to bridge and lock tenders have proved disturbing to the residents trying to sleep.

Committee Will Contact Groups on Forum Proposal

12 Organizations Represented at Preliminary Meeting of Sponsors

Representatives of 12 Appleton organizations met last night at the Y.M.C.A. and favored a plan to sponsor a series of six public forums at the vocational school, according to Homer Gebhardt, secretary.

It is planned to bring in speakers to discuss various subjects of current interest and then open the topic to public discussion. To get the plan started a committee of five was appointed to contact local organizations for members. The committee includes H. H. Helbie, Herbert Heilig, Homer Gebhardt, the Rev. John Hanna and Mrs. George Wetton.

Pride Is Cause of Delay in Changing New Deal Policies

Officials Find It Unpalatable to Accept Advice

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington. — Times haven't changed very much since the days of George Washington—at least President Roosevelt doesn't think so when he quotes the father of our country in support of present-day agricultural aid by the government. But if it is permissible to go back to get an argument for a pending piece of farm legislation, it may be considered a prop.

Today, the business men of the nation are up in arms against policies that they believe have brought a major recession and they insist their advice has been disregarded and their warnings ignored. Back in the period when the American people were considering the drafting of a constitution, Peltah Webster wrote a pamphlet urging that the "merchants of America" be given an opportunity to advise congress on legislation affecting trade. The pamphlet, which is dated Feb. 16, 1783, is believed to have been the basis for the plans offered by Madison, Pinckney and Hamilton to the constitutional convention. Apart from its proposals as to the formation of a national government, Mr. Webster wrote:

"Merchants must from the nature of their business, certainly understand the interests and resources of their country, to the best of any men in it; and I know not of any one reason why they should be deemed less upright or patriotic than any other rank of citizen whatever."

"I, therefore, humbly propose, if the merchants in the several states are disposed to send delegates, that they shall be permitted to form a chamber of commerce, and their advice to congress be demanded and admitted concerning all bills before congress as far as the same may affect the trade of the states...."

Advice of Merchants
"As I conceive the advice of the merchants to be one of the greatest sources of mercantile information, which is anywhere placed within their (congress) reach, it ought by no means to be neglected but so husbanded and improved that the greatest possible advantages may be derived from it."

"Besides this I have another reason why the merchants ought to be consulted. I take it to be very true that the husbandry and manufactures of our country must be ruined if the present rate of taxes is continued on them much longer, and, of course, a very great part of our revenue must arise from imposts on merchandise which will fall directly within the merchants' sphere of business, and, of course, their concurrence and advice will be of the utmost consequence not only to direct the proper mode of levying those duties, but also to get them carried into quiet and peaceable execution."

Mr. Webster went on to say that "no men are more intimately connected with the interests of the citizens than the merchants" and he did not recall an instance in which the English government "ever rejected the remonstrances and advice of the merchants and did not severely suffer for their pride."

"We have some striking instances," he added, "of very many English merchants against the American war, and their fears and apprehensions we see verified almost like prophecies by the event."

What Mr. Webster urged is, in a sense, happening today. This week, delegations from various states and chambers of commerce have been visiting the senators and representatives in Washington, petitioning for a revision of the undistributed surplus and capital gains taxes as a means of aiding business. Scarcely a day goes by that the advice from business men from one end of the country to the other does not reach here by letter, by telephone, by telegraph and by radio.

The drive to stop the new business depression by giving business a chance to maintain its volume. And Mr. Webster is right when he says pride is an obstacle to the acceptance of business advice. It is causing the administration to hesitate at a critical moment, for officials find it unpalatable indeed to proclaim a reversal of policy.

Nevertheless, the temper of congress indicates that such a reversal is on the way.

GREAT ARE THE PEOPLE, —SOMETIMES

Are the men who are now introducing resolutions to amend the constitution to provide for a referendum before war is declared consistent? Some of them are not. And the arguments they will use in support of such an amendment they discard when equally or more important proposals of consultation with the people are under consideration.

War is terrible. But there is no sense in exaggerating its horrors.

Would not the destruction of the nation be worse than a war? Yet men who want to have referendums on war oppose referendums when political royalists are aiming dagger blows at the heart of the nation itself.

The war referendum idea is really based upon the proposition that you cannot always trust congress. And that is a sound proposition.

Yet many who support it do their utmost to prevent the people from voting on proposals far more important and fearfully more far-reaching than war.

It is true then, and we may all agree upon the proposition, that congress can never be given unrestricted power. Neither can the President.

Will anyone be so good as to think up some practical idea of restraining congress or the President excepting the traditional American idea of a constitution enforced by a supreme court?

And what good will it do to amend the constitution prohibiting congress from declaring war without a referendum if we have a cowed and quaking supreme court that dared not enforce that constitutional provision?

Why alter or otherwise monkey with the constitution if the supreme court is so completely under the thumb of our political royalists that it could no longer be trusted to enforce the famous instrument?

Assume that congress declares war in spite of such an amendment, passes a conscription act, votes war loans, loans the money to its European pals and orders its naval and military forces forward, what then?

Where would we be if the supreme court didn't declare such acts invalid?

And while we are considering principles, and particularly liberal principles, why shall we take time to pass a war referendum amendment to the constitution upon the theory that the people are all wise while this administration will not even permit the people to vote upon its measures passed in defiance of the constitution but expects to crowd them through with the aid of a packed court?

THIS HARSH AND PRACTICAL WORLD

While Senator Nye was figuring out an honorable but highly impractical method of guiding the nation in respect to wars elsewhere he probably did not consider the extent to which even the most enlightened governments will go to maintain business or even to get new business without regard to heart throb or right-conscience but with sole regard to dollars and pounds and francs.

England, for instance, has stood about enough loss of trade because of its failure to give the rebel government in Spain rights of a belligerent. The Prime Minister has figured out that the rebel territories could produce about 13 million dollars of business annually for Britain. Enough. Something must be done about it. Something is done.

The Laborites oppose the appointment of agents by and with the Franco government but somewhat with tongue in cheek. Business, after all, must be maintained.

Now what exactly would Senator Nye have us do? Follow the lead of Britain? Or get out of Spain entirely, make no effort to retain established American connections and business, and thereby surrender such business as we may have had to the English who will be on the job? Virtue hath its own rewards and the peacefully minded are rewarded too. Warring nations lose business because they simply cannot handle it. When wars are concluded it is difficult to regain that business. That difficulty is a just punishment.

But retaining business is one thing, and financing or subsidizing one of the combatants to such a tune that one must go to war to save him or prevent the collapse of war boom trade, these are other things entirely.

GOING PLACES

Moralists tell us that one of the baser attributes of mankind is envy. But there will be uncouth thousands of men, reading the newspaper story about the St. Louis youth who has started out for Mexico by horseback, who will know envy nevertheless.

The youth is reported to have dreamed about and planned his trip since boyhood, and to have said:

Traveling at high speeds along highways in automobiles, people don't get to really see the country and its people."

He is right. For ten years he has been working in a filling station, pumping gasoline into the tanks of cars driven by persons who were going places, hurried persons on vacation who gripped steering wheels grimly and returned to their homes to tell their friends how many miles they had covered in so short a time.

Too many vacationists, looking forward to next Summer's pleasures, can remember little about last summer's vacation. Memories are a confused jumble in which roadside stands, tourist cabins, billboards, guard rails, flash past with the ribbon of the highway unrolling always beneath their wheels. Beauty was there for them to see but they could look neither to right nor left. People were there along the roadside who would have greeted them in all friendliness. There was no time.

Now, looking forward and back, men will envy the youth who can ride leisurely through the territory about which they can remember so little. And the chances are that next summer they will be back just as hurried.

HIDDEN TALENT

At least a part of the complaint registered against the males of this country by a noted French writer, that they are such notoriously poor romancers because they cannot write effective love letters, is unjust.

The art of love letter writing is not on the decline in America because of a dearth of talent. There have been many brilliant love letter writers in this country. Their fame has been spread in many a courtroom and on innumerable front pages.

In fact it has appeared that the American love letter writer is too good at it for his own good. If the stories of his abilities along this line, as told before the jury and judge, are true, his pen has great powers of persuasion and exerts a mighty influence. An estimate of its effectiveness is measured quite frequently in broken hearts and damage suits running up into the thousands of dollars. So many, in fact, that some states banned such suits.

It is not that the men of this country are utterly devoid of romantic aptitude. They have been made wary of committing it to paper. Even the innocent word "dear" has assumed terrible potentialities for trouble making when written. It can take on all sorts of new meanings, strange to the author, when read to a jury.

Romeo, American version, would be wise if he developed a bad case of writer's cramps these days.

AN OLD FRIEND PASSES

A correspondent reports after an exhaustive and exhausting search in the stores of his home city that the "deep" saucer seems likely to go the way of the moustache cup and the individual shaving mugs that stood on the barber's shelf.

His search turned up six of the old fashioned saucers among some odds and ends of china in a back street hardware store. He bore them in triumph to his editor.

So passes another American institution. The influence of the Emily Post school of social arbiters has penetrated to the cross roads. No longer may one unashamedly pour his coffee or tea into his saucer to cool while he proceeds with the more serious business of eating. And, though one may entertain hostility for the amenities of the table that have been foisted on us by the society desk, he will find that the modern, nearly flat saucer is a most unsatisfactory container for liquids.

Modern, stream lined living takes little account of many a comfortable habit.

Opinions Of Others

THE LESSON

In America's largest city, organized labor can claim a great share of the credit for Mayor LaGuardia's smashing victory. The support of the American Labor party proved highly effective.

But the story in the fourth largest city, Detroit, is different. There the United Automobile Workers and the CIO, which had made a determined effort to capture the city government, say their candidate for mayor snored under a conservative backed by the business element.

There the division in labor's ranks played some part, with the leaders of the A. F. of L. endorsing the business candidate while many rank and file members of the federation worked and voted for the CIO ticket. Essentially, however, the Detroit result appears to have been a case of the people sitting down on the sidewalk.

The CIO candidate was beaten by the ballots of an electorate which had suffered through a long siege of illegal strikes, sit-downs, "quickies" and "skipples"—through a long period when contracts made in good faith were broken in bad faith.

The lesson, it seems to us, is that labor must prove its ability to use wisely and justly the power it now has if it wants the people of Detroit, or the people of America, to vote it even greater power.—New York World-Telegram.

Government textile mills are being opened in Turkey.

APPLETON POST-CRESCENT

TODAY sees the approaching windup of the autumn madness known as football. The Big Ten finishes its operations for the season, and with the exception of the Thanksgiving day games, the affairs next Saturday and the various bowl games, we can let the whole matter drop unless the Packers are in the playoff for the professional championship . . . after this will come the annual complaints about subsidies, overemphasis and the clarion call of "fire the coach" . . . the cry in Wisconsin is, as usual, "wait until next year" . . . but there will be no yelling about dismissing the Wisconsin coach . . . in the first place, he's the athletic department. If he keeps to his present rate of progress, he'll probably be governor of the state before another ten years are up . . . this is written on Friday without knowing what Minnesota might do to Wisconsin today . . . no matter what happens, Stuhldreher is probably good for as long as he cares to stay . . .

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

NOVEMBER'S ROSE

Our hearts, and the day, too, were hung with gloom
When we came sorrowfully to your tomb.

But there, as if to prove that love endures
Eternally, the rose we labelled "yours".

Sent one red blossom to November skies . . .
The tears, too long held back, welled from our eyes.

And we were warmed and strengthened by the sight
Of your love blooming in the fading light

STILL PARADING THE DOGS

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — Military students in these parts have come to the conclusion, after close analysis of the Chinese conflict, that the Japanese are very skillful fighters.

Here is a quick picture of what has happened on the two fronts:

In North China the Yellow river extends inland to the west some 500 miles, then turns abruptly northward, about the same distance. That forms the bottom and far side of a rough square on which are four rich provinces of North China which Japan set out to subdue. Peiping, the North China capital, is within that square. The area includes more than 300,000 square miles.

Three railroads run roughly north and south through the square down to the Yellow river. One is about 50 miles inland, another 250 miles inland and the third 400 miles inland. Japan, operating southward from the puppet kingdom of Manchukuo, launched a drive in three columns, following southward along these three railroads. The heaviest drive was first concentrated on the railroad nearest the coast. There was a reason for this.

Strategy In the North
As soon as the Japanese line had forced its way about half way to the Yellow river on the south, a strong force was sent inland from this coastal railroad. This force hit the Chinese in the rear along the second railway, 250 miles inland. It forced the Chinese back, and thus the second Japanese column was brought about even with the first in the southerly advance.

As soon as this advance had been accomplished along the second railway, a strong force was sent inland similarly to hit the Chinese in the rear on the third railway, about 400 miles inland. That movement was accomplished November 9, virtually winding up the business of taking the four northern provinces.

In four months Japan has overrun about 300,000 square miles. If Germany had overrun all of Belgium and France in 1914, it would have covered only 223,000 square miles.

On the Shanghai front the difficulties were vastly greater, but the Japanese strategy was effective.

Best strategy on most battles is to go around the enemy's flank. But at Shanghai the Chinese north flank was on the Yangtze river and the south flank anchored against the international settlement. So flanking was well-nigh impossible. The Japanese had to punch a hole through, which they did near the International settlement early in November. Cut loose from the International settlement, the Chinese had to fall back.

Meantime another smart maneuver was in making. The Chinese had blocked the Yellow river, up stream from Shanghai, on the way toward Nanking. The Japanese made a show of attacking this blockade on the Chinese north flank. Meantime they brought two divisions from the far north (Yellow river) front, landed them on the sea-coast south of Shanghai and headed inland toward the Chinese south flank. The Chinese were taken completely by surprise and had to back away faster.

Meantime, these are rough statistics of the war as gathered from cumulative news reports:

Chinese, 100,000 killed; wounded, 300,000; Japanese, 25,000 killed; wounded, 10,000; Chinese property loss: $200,000,000; Japanese property loss: $250,000,000; Total cost to China: $550,000,000; to Japan $850,000,000.

After the business meeting a program was presented. Mrs. Wilcox, members of the lodge, were surprised by the members with a cake containing 34 candles in honor of their thirty-fourth wedding anniversary. Mrs. Lila Manley sang "I Love You Truly."

In December the following candidates will be initiated into the order: Rebekahs: Florence Still, Rita Burdick, Fern Schultz, Marion Heikle and Dorothy Green. Members of the New London Rebekah lodge will put on the degree work. The committee for Thursday evening included Eva Payton, Susie Andrews, Anna Spehr, Ernest Spehr, Bertha Spehr and Will Spehr.

Mrs. Tessa Allender was hostess to the Rebekahs at her home Thursday afternoon. Honors were awarded to Mrs. Monroe Manley, who also received the carrying prize. Mrs. Will Oaks will entertain the club at its next meeting.

Tom Morse left for Mercer Wednesday morning where he will be stationed as a state game warden. Mike Miller has installed an electric range in his home.

Eugene Barth, a pupil at Maple Lawn school, celebrated his birthday anniversary Wednesday afternoon at school by presenting a treat to the other pupils and the teacher, Evelyn Palmer. Games were played. Marion Barth, a sister of Eugene, was present.

GIVES PRIZES FOR PRODUCTION

Moscow — (4) — Premiums and prizes have been awarded to 14,000 coal miners in the Donetz basin by Lazar Kaganovich, commissar of heavy industry, to stimulate lagging production.

When Kaganovich was commissar of railroads, the policy was to shoot railroaders who upset the system by accidents and bad work. Now his successor, Alexei Bakulyn, also is awarding prizes. He recently distributed 200 watches to railway Stakhanovites (shock workers).

Personal Health Talks

WITHOUT THE SUN

Most men will spend the winter in a climate drier than Sahara but without the benefit of the desert sunshine.

Outdoor air at zero temperature with a relative humidity of 50 per cent (that is, containing half the moisture it could hold if saturated), when heated to 70 degrees F. has a relative humidity of only 3 per cent, which is drier than the air of the driest climate known, which is seldom less than 25 per cent. The year around humidity in Death Valley, California, averages 23 per cent, and at Yuma, Arizona, it is 35 per cent in the driest month of the year.

The excessively dried out air of the heated house (it matters little what type of heat is used), causes woodwork to shrink and fall apart, book bindings to crack, plants to droop and die, the skin of occupants to become harsh and irritable, mucous membranes to become congested and hypersensitive. It is hard on every one, but especially for those subject to chronic bronchitis, winter cough, sinusitis, "catarrhal" troubles, asthma, emphysema, bronchiectasis.

Comfort, health and economy demand for every one either a suitably air-conditioning equipment installed with the heating system or at least some provision for evaporating a reasonable amount of water daily in the air of the heated dwelling. This is desirable for every one, but imperative for those subject to chronic bronchitis, sinus trouble, winter cough, "catarrhal" conditions. Gadgets that evaporate a gallon of water a day are scarce—worth considering. As a rule it is necessary to evaporate from one to two gallons a day for each average size room in the house, in order to maintain a fair relative humidity in the heated atmosphere.

The other fault with the climate where most people spend the winter is absence of sunshine. It is not merely the warmth of sunshine that makes the ideal winter climate attractive; it is the greater proportion of ultraviolet rays in the sunlight nearer the equator. Ultraviolet rays, if the skin is exposed to them, generate vitamin D in the body (converting ergosterol into vitamin D). Vitamin D is essential in maintaining or building immunity against infection. If this natural source of vitamin D is not available, then dwellers in the great indoor winter Sahara should supplement their diet with a daily ration of vitamin D—at least 5,000 or 6,000 units of vitamin D every day through the winter.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Multiple Neuritis
Son poor eater, heavy drinker, truck driver, has stiffness in legs, hard to walk, left hand sore and numb, doctors who examined him all said nerves, some neuritis in arms and legs. (Mrs. R. M. C.)

Answer—Buy wheat germ by the pound, from a miller who will take the trouble to catch it out for you, or from a health food store. See that your son gets at least four ounces (one-fourth pound) of it daily, mixed with any cereal he eats, or incorporated in any recipe calling for flour—use half flour and half wheat germ.

Glasses
Is it necessary to have glasses fitted to a child aged 9 years if the eye doctor, after drops, finds the child has 14 dioptrial in both eyes, far sighted? (R. H. G.)

Answer—It would be best to follow the advice of the oculist who made the examination. Often the wearing of glasses in childhood conserves vision for later life.

I am very fond of grapes, but my pleasure in eating them is spoiled if I have to eject the skins or see any one else doing so. Is there danger of getting appendicitis if one eats the grapes with skins, seeds and all? (H. E. G.)

Answer—On the contrary, eating the skins and seeds and all tends to prevent appendicitis. Notion that grape-seeds may cause appendicitis based on error of observation. Concretions resembling seeds sometimes found in appendix at operation, but we know these fecal masses are there as a consequence of disease, not as the cause. The normal appendix admits nothing. Your Birthday

"SCORPIO"

If November 21 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:30 A. M. to 1:30 P. M., from 3:30 to 5:30 P. M., and from 7:30 to 9:30 P. M. The danger periods are from 9:30 to 11:30 A. M.; from 5:30 to 7:30 P. M., and from 9:30 to 11:30 P. M.

You may have to take a firm stand in some matter of importance this day. In any question involving your personal authority or rights it might be well to insist on either being accorded the recognition they might be entitled to. You may discover love of power sometimes makes some people take a very peculiar view when it is vested in someone else. On this day social activities may make many a pet owner forgetful that dumb animals are dependent on them for their sustenance and comfort, with the result that great suffering might occur through neglect. Animal lovers want to keep this warning in mind.

Food will receive a great deal of serious consideration, so the housewife and restaurant owner should do their best to satisfy those they have to feed. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who are convinced that they have found the one and only person in the world who can make them eternally happy, should remember that self-expression is the right of each and every person, and any attempt to suppress it is unjust.

If a woman and November 21 is your birthday, you are impulsive, honest, courageous and perhaps occasionally, tactlessly outspoken. As the average person usually does not enjoy the unvarnished truth, your frankness may make you some enemies, so be careful in this respect. Your broad-mindedness is likely to result in your disregarding too many of the conventionalities of social life. Curl this trait so that it will not subject you to criticism. As an artist, musician, professional entertainer, doctor, dietician, author or sales lady, your earnings are liable to be limited only by the amount of energy you put into your work. Very favorable conditions indicate your married life will be a very happy one.

The child born on November 21, gives promise of becoming one of Fortune's favored children. In the prime of life, this youngster may win an enviable reputation through some worthwhile accomplishment.

If a man and November 21 is your natal day, if you are thrifty, conservative and fair in your business relationships with your fellow man, your financial returns may be large. Through inventing, policies, construction work, architecture, selling, acting or authorship your ambition to become rich might be realized.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York — Notes of the big town, jotted here and there on a quick round-up:

The newest Broadway hit is that satirical musical farce which sets a precedent by lambasting the daylights out of a president while he is still in office. But it is all in good fun. It's the sort of mirth-provoking buffoonery in which a member of the Supreme Court leaps out from behind bushes and trees to yell "No!" everytime Mr. Roosevelt (George M. Cohan) passes by.

Written by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, Broadway's prime profaners of temples, it is, primarily, the Washington setup reduced to a daisy-chain of gleeful absurdities. Financially, it is the most important production of the season. Such was the sense of expectancy which gripped Broadway that advance sales had totalled $180,000 before a single performance was given.

However, (to this corner's nation, at least) the best show in town is a lusty gallop with Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne in "Amphitryon 38," which is really a bedroom farce based on cannibal razzle-dazzle. The opening scene is a bawdy roar. It reveals Lunt (as Jupiter) and Richard Whorf (Mercury) stretched out in full muscular nakedness on a cloud, peeping through windows down on earth and appreciating the charms of various characters there. Here is a salty episode out of Greek mythology, with the gods descending to mortal subterfuge and somehow being bested.

Gertrude Lawrence is right much of the pranks of stage. She is one really famous star who likes to go places and dance after the final curtain. . . . The daughter of Arthur Train, author of the famous Tut and Mr. Tut stories, is following in her father's footsteps. . . . But she has achieved fiction to author a cook book, "The Queen's Taste," it's called, and it is an amusing, informal and practical guide designed for modern urban hostesses. . . . In private life she is Helen Train Hilles, her father-in-law being Charles D. Hilles of the Republican national committee.

Mary Boland has made 17 trans-Atlantic crossings. . . . Skippers of the Atlantic lines, incidentally, are gratified that winter is upon us. . . . Not that they prefer icy gales to gentle summer breezes, but it means the end, for nine months at least, of the college boy tourist, who sometimes proves a strenuous and a trying charge.

Al Johnson explains why the wolf is so often at the door—it's the mink in the closet. . . . Fred Allen says the newest in cemetery acquaintances are neon tubes for grave stones—for deceased actors who are used to having their names in lights.

'Ever Since Eve' To Open Monday

Marion Davies, Robert Montgomery Head Cast of Comedy

Two stars of immense popularity, and of well deserved top rank among comedy players, come to the Elite Theatre next Monday and Tuesday, Bargain Days, in "Ever Since Eve."

They are Marion Davies, the lovely blonde comedienne, and Robert Montgomery, the debonair youth who has been leading man in so many gay movies.

Miss Davies and Montgomery are co-starred in what is described as the liveliest, fastest-moving farce either has played in for a long time.

Miss Davies plays the part of a stenographer who has been so harassed by employers because of her golden-haired beauty that she disguises herself with a dark wig and glasses and goes looking for another job.

Montgomery is a novelist who is crazy about blondes, but is forced to accept this seeming brunette forced upon him by his hard-boiled woman publisher, who wants him to keep his mind on his work.

He is therefore strictly business during working hours, with Marion there, but it chances that he meets her socially, one evening, when she is not disguised.

Besides the two stars, "Ever Since Eve" has a cast including such comedy experts as Patsy Kelly, Frank McHugh, Louise Fazenda, Allen Jenkins, and Carol Hughes.

'High, Wide, Handsome' On at Appleton Theater

Jerome Korn, dean of American composers, and Oscar Hammerstein II renowned librettist, creators of many of America's unforgettable musical plays, contribute to the screen another sweeping drama of early American life in "High, Wide and Handsome," which is at the Appleton Theatre now and will play through Wednesday.

The story of the troubled birth of the oil industry in the United States is the background for the love romance of a determined fighting Pennsylvania farmer and a beautiful light-hearted singer of carnival shows. Randolph Scott and Irene Dunne carry the romantic leading roles, supported by a cast of more than a thousand, including Dorothy Lamour, Elizabeth Patterson, Raymond Walburn, Charles Bickford, Akim Tamiroff, Ben Blue and William Frawley. The love story of these two vitally different characters is aided throughout by the fine music by Kern, who has made the score of "High, Wide and Handsome" one of his best works.

This love story is told in a setting of seething drama, with the fights over the pipe line which was to bring oil to the Eastern refineries spreading thrilling action across the screen. It was the strife between the railroads and the farmers who found oil on their lands that furnished the historical basis for the screen play. Such historical incidents as the pitched battle between the farmers and railroad men that occurred at Oxbow Mountain are thrilling recreation of actual scenes. The film was directed by Rouben Mamoulian, winner of the New York Critic's Circle 1936 award for distinguished direction.

"Living On Love," the second feature on this program, takes place in New York's Greenwich Village, famed as the home of artists, writers and Bohemians. The colorful life of the village residents is shown, and Jimmy Dunne and Betty Hutton, an artist who works night as a shipping clerk, and a girl who sells theatrical razors, are typical of the people who have made the center famous throughout the world.

'San Quentin' Showing At Elite Today, Sunday

Those who like their moviemaking rugged and strong—plenty good if they're good and plenty bad if they are so inclined—are due for a treat today and Sunday at the Elite theatre where the First National melodrama "San Quentin" is the feature attraction.

On the good side the fans will see Pat O'Brien, which ought to be satisfactory enough. He's the Captain of the Yard in San Quentin. On the bad side they'll have Humphrey Bogart and Joseph Sawyer as a couple of tough prisoners, plus big Barton MacLane as a crooked jail official.

But the picture isn't altogether masculine. For sweetness and light there's that lovely red-headed leading woman, Ann Sheridan, as a San Francisco night club singer with whom Pat falls in love.

It's far from being a gloomy picture, preview observers declare, in spite of the fact that a lot of the action is behind the walls of the ancient penitentiary on the shore of San Francisco Bay. There are no executions and no death-house scenes.

Lloyd Bacon, a specialist in fast action and thrills, directed "San Quentin."

Others in the cast besides those mentioned include Veda Ann Borg, Joseph King, James Robbins and Gordon Oliver.

Brought together for the first time as co-stars in the romantic comedy "Breakfast for Two" are Barbara Stanwyck and Herbert Marshall. They are supported by a quartet of fun-makers including Eric Blore, Glenda Farrell, Etienne Girardot and Donald Meek.

"Breakfast for Two" is based on David Garth's novel of the same name, which was published in Red Book. The screen play was written by Charles Kaufman, Paul Yawitz and Viola Brothers Shore. At Rialto, Kaukauna, Saturday midnight and Sunday.

This sparkling comedy-romance, directed by Al Santell, deals in

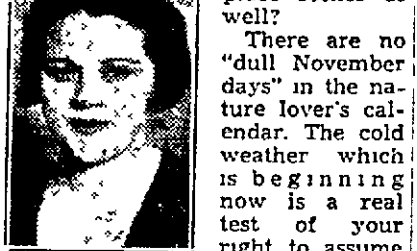

APPEAR IN 'SECOND HONEYMOON'

Top off that great Thanksgiving feast with a grand show. An outstanding Thanksgiving program has been arranged for your enjoyment. Starting Thanksgiving day for one entire week, at the Appleton Theatre. The fun making and Love making sweethearts of "Love Is News" and "Cafe Metropole" TYRONE POWER and LORETTA YOUNG, really put their hearts into the romance of "SECOND HONEYMOON" their perfect picture together. Also on the same program we are showing George Arliss as his dramatic best in "DR. SYN" a truly great star in a story to thrill and delight everyone.

Real Nature Lover Has No 'Dull November Days'

BY CLARA HUSSONG

Are you one of those nature lovers who needs a bright, sunny day and the prospect of seeing something unusual before you set out on a hike or can you enjoy cold or drizzly days and common-place scenes as well?

There are no "dull November days" in the nature lover's calendar. The cold weather which is beginning now is a real treat to your eyesight to assume the name of "nature lover." If your activities in fields and woods cease now and don't begin again until next spring you are still in the tenderfoot class. Nature is as beautiful in winter as in summer and those who neglect her during the cold months are missing one of her phases.

To understand or appreciate anything thoroughly you must study it in every season and under every condition. The uninitiated in the ways of nature look upon this season as a funeral period, a time of death for flowers and a lessening or even cessation of activities of animal life. We should, instead, look upon this as a season of rest and recuperation.

Although trees and flowers appear lifeless now if you examine them closely you will see that the process of life is still going on. Even at this season many shrubs, trees and even herbaceous plants have winter buds. Pick a twig of poplar, beech or almost any other tree and you will see the tightly-folded leaf buds. Push away the fallen leaves from a hepatica plant and close to its roots you will find the buds which next year will open into a flower.

Birches and alders are already equipped with catkins of both sexes. The male catkins are about an inch long, scaly and hard. The female ones, which grow just above the male catkins, are tiny. The hairy scales of the birch cone are blown away by the wind, when the seeds ripen in autumn but the hard woody cones of the alders remain on the shrubs even after the seeds have dropped from them.

Other plants bear fruit unusual in color or construction and you cannot fail to run across some of these in your November walk. Along fence rows, on wooded hillsides or sloping railroad banks you may find the dark blue berries of the carion flower. The berries appear in a thick cluster, hemispheric in form.

The plant is somewhat vining in its manner of growth, the leaves are heart-shaped, distinctly net-veined. The pale flowers appear in May and are very ill-smelling, which explains why this plant, unusually beautiful in its fruiting season, was given the name of "carion flower." The plant belongs to the smilax family and anyone who knows the cultivated species will recognize the characteristics of this family in the wild plant. Green-briar, another native smilax, has sweet-smelling flowers and a woody stem the lower part of which is covered with dense prickles.

Another vining plant whose fruit has an unusual appearance is the sprightly fashion with a rich girl's efforts to make a man out of a charming idler.

climbing false buckwheat. This plant is a weed which may be found in the same sort of place as the carion flower. Through the summer it is scarcely noticeable except when looking for showier blossoms we may find its long stem of the desired flower.

Period of Beauty

In autumn, however, the buckwheat has a period of beauty. The yellowish-green flowers are now replaced by drooping clusters of tawny, winged seeds. The crisp, three-angled seed pods are a pretty addition to any winter bouquet.

On a dull November day, if you wish to recapture the mood of spring, you can do so by listening to the song of the horned larks. Walk out into the country to large open fields, either weedy meadows or plowed fields. You may find these birds there in large numbers, roaming over the fields picking up weed and grain seeds.

The horned larks which are true larks and related to the European skylark, are about the size of a bluebird, grayish brown above, white below with ruddy streaks at the side and having a black and yellow throat. Their best marks are the pair of tufted feathers or horns on the crown and their habit of walking instead of hopping as most ground-frequenting birds do.

When they see you approaching, they fly up hurriedly, uttering low, sweetly whistled notes, swirl about for a short distance and then come back to their original spot. They are seldom silent but their brief whistled notes are among the undertones of nature which only those with the sharpest ears will hear. Those who know the song of the lark love it for its spring-like quality.

In spring the horned larks make high, spiral flights but through the winter they remain close to earth. They seldom perch higher than a fence post and at night huddle together in a sheltered spot on the ground.

These are a few of the pictures you can gather at this season. Don't let cloudy skies keep you from that hike, if you are willing to look for treasures among drab-looking country-sides, you will find them.

The output from Clyde shipyards in Scotland in September was the best in three years.

The Manx Government expects to keep every man on the island of Man at work this winter.

'Double Wedding' Is Showing at Rio

William Powell and Myrna Loy Co-Star for Seventh Time

It was left for the inimitable William Powell and his charming colleague of the screen, Myrna Loy, to immortalize the trailer in celluloid.

This is the combination which co-stars for the seventh time in "Double Wedding" playing at the Rio theatre thru Monday. The picture is Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's adaptation of Ferenc Molnar's international stage hit, "Great Love." And again, as may be expected, the screen adds to the charm of the original.

No more laugh-provoking picture has been on a local screen in years Powell and Miss Loy were delightful in "Labeled Lady," "After the Thin Man" and others, but their combination of talents has reached its peak in "Double Wedding."

They have the support of an unusually able cast, including Florence Rice and John Beal, as the principals in the first wedding, Jessie Ralph, Edgar Kennedy, Sidney Toler and Mary Gordon.

Rivalling the most sensational exploits of famous aviators of the world, situations in the added feature on the current program, "Love Takes Flight," bring to the screen one of the most thrilling romantic air stories ever pictured.

"Love Takes Flight" runs the gamut of flying, starting out with the hero, colorfully played by Bruce Cabot, and the heroine, appealingly depicted by Beatrice Roberts, in the transport service, he as pilot, she as air hostess. Of course, they are in love and their romance is one of the tender and beautiful elements of this unusual picture. There is much suspense and excitement throughout the film which is geared to a faster pace than the average motion picture.

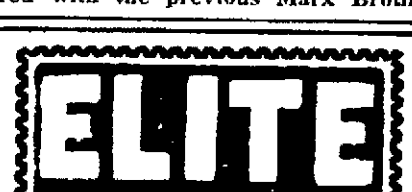

The Egyptian government will buy a portion of that nation's surplus wheat.

ELITE BOOKS 'A DAY AT THE RACES'

The mad, merry Marx Brothers bring their latest lunatickling comedy, "A Day at the Races," to the Elite screen for 3 days starting next Wednesday, after an entire year was spent in preparation of its madcap plot, hilarious gags and side-splitting situations.

Appearing in support of Groucho, Harpo and Chico in the new laugh-extravaganza are Maureen O'Sullivan and Allan Jones in the romantic leads, and Margaret Dumont, Esther Muir and others adding to the chortles. The picture was directed by Sam Wood, who scored with the previous Marx Brothers hit, "A Night at the Opera."

TWO HITS ON THANKSGIVING PROGRAM

Combining two outstanding hits for a gala holiday program, the Rio theatre will present "The Perfect Specimen" and "45 Fathers" on Thanksgiving day, Friday, and Saturday.

"The Perfect Specimen" is a hilarious comedy with a huge cast of stars headed by Errol Flynn and Joan Blondell, supported by Hugh Herbert, Edward Everett Horton, Dick Foran, Beverly Roberts, Mary Robson, and Allen Jenkins.

In "45 Fathers," Jane Withers' newest picture, they try to give Jane that finishing-school finish, and it's almost the finish of everybody. Thomas Beck and Louise Henry co-star with Jane Withers.

'Hold 'Em Navy' Tops Twin Bill Next Week

Due to the fact that the Rio theatre has a gala holiday show opening on Thanksgiving day, the regular mid-week special program will be presented next week on Tuesday and Wednesday. The change in days is for next week only, and two unusually entertaining features will be offered as the screen attraction Tuesday and Wednesday.

Some of the best football ever played for a moving picture is to be seen in "Hold 'Em Navy," the new Annapolis film that heads the twin hit bill. Played by the team of the University of California and the young stars of the picture, Lew Ayres and John Howard, the games offer all the thrills of a real Army-Navy game, seen from the fifty-yard line.

Football, however is not all there is to "Hold 'Em Navy," by any means. There is a spightly love story, played by Ayres, Howard and Mary Carlisle, that ranks well in the front rows for light romance.

The three are all outstandingly capable young players, and all are at their best in this picture of football and romance at the Naval Academy.

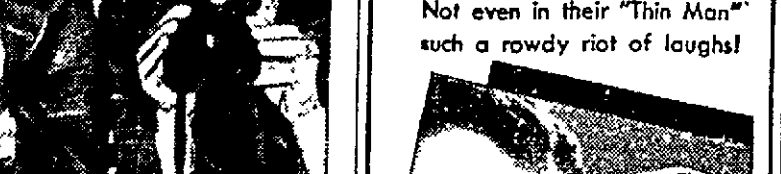

A fine supporting cast plays in the film, including Benny Baker, Elizabeth Patterson and Pat Flaherty.

The comedy, the flashes of life in Annapolis, and the fine football in the picture raise this to grand entertainment.

The "perfect crime" is the basis of "Night Club Scandal," the added feature on the program. John Barrymore is the man who attempts to achieve it, and the story of how he fares in his battle of wits against a newspaper reporter and a hard-driving detective makes thrilling film fare. With Barrymore in this exciting mystery film are Lyone Overman, Louise Campbell, Charles Bickford and Harvey Stephens.

NOW! Last 3 DAYS! Not even in their "Thin Man" such a rowdy riot of laughs!

Loretta Young in Romantic Comedy

Teamed With Tyrone Power in Thanksgiving Show At Appleton Theater

"Love" is the world's best appeal to the human interest. Such is the substance of the result of a careful survey made by a New York advertising agency to find the one subject that would always attract universal attention.

"Love" is news. Pick up any newspaper catering to the greater mass of people, the headlines almost invariably are occupied with this absorbing topic. Tyrone Power and Loretta Young teamed together in a romantic comedy, "Second Honeymoon," which opens at the Appleton Theatre next week Thursday for a week, is big news to everyone. The reason is the smart, modern, gay and witty manner that has made them the most exciting sweethearts of the screen. All the world loves a lover, and all the world has followed these two lovers as they show new ways to romance.

When Tyrone and Loretta meet under the Moon moon for an impulsive kiss, their love means more, but this time they mean it with all their hearts. Love at first sight... MMM! "Second Honeymoon" is their perfect picture together as their "Reno'd" Honeymoon is renewed in the merriest, "marry-est" romance of the year.

Tyrone, so ardent, and Loretta, so gay, were exciting in "Love Is News" and "Cafe Metropole," but this time they really have their hearts in it! Stuart Erwin, Claire Trevor, Marjorie Weaver, Lyle

Neenah Captain Recalls 40 Years of Fire Fighting

Neenah—Length of service apparently doesn't diminish firemen's suspense when a huge fire breaks out, for Captain August F. Eberlein who has fought in all of Neenah's major fires for the last 40 years was under as much stress as the other members of the department when a $75,000 conflagration destroyed the First Methodist church Wednesday morning.

Following the church fire, Captain Eberlein recalled the large fires in Neenah since he has been a member of department, and according to his recollection, there has fortunately been comparatively few big fires.

The church fire was the first big conflagration since the Ansapch fire in 1910. Firemen fought the blaze in the dry goods store for 18 hours before the flames were squelched, the captain recalled. Like the church, the dry goods store was of brick veneer.

Two other fires of major importance have occurred since then, the fire fighter recalled. Both were in 1925 when two oil companies' gasoline tanks exploded and burned. Firemen fought smoke and flames for hours before it subsided.

Two other large fires occurred in 1923 when the old North Western round house caught fire on July 10, while the depot burned on May 19. The first major fire that the captain recalled occurred in the spring of 1901 when the cold storage building of the Soo Line, presently owned by Armour and company, burned. Firemen fought for 24 hours before flames which destroyed the building, were conquered. The building practically burned to the ground, and two firemen narrowly escaped death when a wall caved in.

Three other major fires occurred a few years later. The Kegerer Lachman building on Canal street, where the Neenah Paper company's office is presently located, burned to the ground. Fire fighters spent another 18-hour session pouring water into the blaze. The Wieckert Planing mill and elevator burned the same year, flames razing the frame structure level with the ground.

A year later the Jasper Flour mill burned, firemen working throughout the night to extinguish the blaze.

Fortunately there were no firemen injured during these blazes. Until March 1917, the fires were fought by a volunteer crew, with a hose cart for equipment. In 1917 the first truck was purchased. When a paid department was inaugurated, George Christoph was chief, and Chief L. M. Rauch took over his duties 20 years ago.

Hearing on Partiality Charges Against Pension Boss Set for Nov. 24

(Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau) Oshkosh—More actual business was conducted Friday afternoon by the Winnebago county board than in any previous session, with approximately $26,000 appropriated for Sunnyside sanatorium, $1,500 for tuberculosis tests for school children, and hearing on R. J. Dunham's charges against the pension administrator, set for Wednesday morning, Nov. 24.

The Social Security committee, composed of Chairman J. F. Shea, R. M. Heckner, vice chairman, and T. J. Cotter, chairman of the poor committee, was made a permanent body and given powers to hire and fire all employees of the pension department except the administrator. This function was reserved for the entire county board.

After some argument, a resolution by Supervisor Cotter, asking $18,000 be appropriated to make up the deficit in the Aid to Dependent Children fund, was passed. It was pointed out this would be necessary to secure the 80 per cent refund from the state.

Supervisor Clark pointed out this made a total for 1937 of $48,000, as a previous $30,000 had been appropriated. Supervisor Cotter explained the lead limit had been raised from $4 to $14, creating the deficit. It was mentioned quick action should be taken on resolutions totalling $300,000 for social security work, if the 80 per cent is to be secured.

Resolutions introduced by Supervisor Cotter, asking $60,000 to aid to dependent children in 1938; $7,000 for blind pensions; $50,000 for outdoor relief; $1,500 for administration of outdoor relief; and $17,000 for administration of the pension department were referred to the finance committee to put in the budget.

Three resolutions giving $9,000 on condition Fond du Lac county also contributes the same amount; $16,179.49, and $238.19 for X-ray work, were passed for Sunnyside sanatorium.

Mr. George Banta, Jr., Menasha, stated the Neenah-Menasha Visiting Nurse association made 353 calls in the county in 1937. She said that 213 had been made in the cities and 140 in the county. Patients were referred to the visiting nurse association by the old age pension department, the mothers pension, and directly from the outdoor relief.

She stated nine patients had been given hospital attention, and many cases were of those who were taken home after a major operation and needed nursing service.

In 1937, Supervisor John Moore said, $500 had been contributed by the county board, with $250 going to the Oshkosh Visiting Nurse association and the other $250 to the Neenah-Menasha group.

When Supervisor W. Clark asked if there was duplication of work, he was told it was the only organization of its kind in the field.

Aldro Jenks, Fond du Lac, district supervisor of assessments, gave his report before the Winnebago county board Friday morning including, among other items, a recommended equalization table which will be the basis for distributing the 1938 levy in Winnebago county. The only changes that will be made are the personal property division.

The reason given for the personal property valuation shift was due to fluctuation of prices. Cattle values in Winnebago county were reported increased with slightly more on hand. Sheep prices remained about the same with swine prices lowered due to selling off between assessors of Winnebago county with an estimated 3

Potted Plant

Atlantic City, N. J.—There's a new gadget, devised by S. Herbert Smith, a water to the potted geranium while you're on vacation.

Operated by the heat of the sun, it will squirt ten ounces of water into a flowerpot on sunny days. Smith says the plant won't need water when there's no sun to dry it out.

Smith's gadget consists of a metal tank, a length of rubber tubing, and a tiny needle valve.

The heat of the sun expands the air in the top of the tank and forces a couple of drops of water through the tube to the plant.

GRIN AND BEAR IT

"If you'd kiss me like this at home, I wouldn't be running home to Mother so often!"

Black Bears on Rampage in Northern Wisconsin

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—Most citizens of Wisconsin, probably, do not know that there are enough bears in the state of Wisconsin to bother about. Certainly most city residents would arch a dubious eyebrow if anyone were to suggest that a marauding Bruin is creating a serious problem for peaceable taxpayers in the state.

But that is the case. According to W. F. Grimmer, state superintendent of game management, "for some unknown reason, the black bear of northern Wisconsin is on a rampage."

This fall, according to Grimmer, the destruction of personal property and livestock in northern counties by this ordinarily pacific visitor, or "grizzly," has been "alarming proportions."

Complaining letters have been received in unusually large numbers this fall, Grimmer said, by farmers and landowners who never complained before. One farmer wrote recently: "During the past three weeks, the bears have destroyed and carried away from my farm nine miles east of Pembine about 100 lambs and older sheep."

Other farmers reported the destruction of bee hives, raids on apple orchards, corn fields, and even attacks on humans. One northern resident informed Grimmer that his neighbors "are actually afraid to go into the woods to cut firewood without firearms on their person."

Grimmer points out that the open season on bear in 19 counties ordered by the conservation commission will help to alleviate the bear problems, but wants the bears to know that he bears them no hard feelings.

This week he issued propitiatory announcements, which said among other things, that "the grizzly is unusual and the game division hopes with the many friends of the Wisconsin black bear that the majority of our troublesome friends will have begun their winter nap by the 1937 hunting season and that next year the circumstances and conditions that are causing the bear tribe to be so rambunctious will have corrected themselves, and that once more they will continue to attend to their own business."

Benedicts Given 10 Rules For Smooth Marital Road

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—Will you tell a mere man how to retain his wife's affection and keep her glad she married him? For, after all, it is just as important for us husbands to keep our wives in love with us as it is for wives to keep us in love with them.

BENEDICT.

Answer:

You are quite right about that, brother, and I wish more husbands had gumption enough to realize that it is peace in their homes and money in their pockets to keep their wives eating out of their hands. For a contented wife is a good wife. As long as a woman is in love with her husband she keeps on her tiptoes trying to please him. It is only after a woman loses her taste for her husband that she flops in her looks and her housekeeping, gets naggy and peevish, and takes out on him all of her disappointment at life.

Well, then, if you wish to keep your wife in love with you, here are a few suggestions that will help you turn the trick. First, keep up your courtship. Don't drop all love-making at the altar. Women don't lose their sweet teeth as soon as they are married. Keep on telling your wife how beautiful and wonderful she is. Before marriage it is expedient to flatter your sweetie, won't raise ructions when you take a platinum blonde out to lunch.

Second. Start out on the right foot. Don't, because you are so much in love with your bride and because you know so little of women, let her get the upper hand of you at the beginning and grab the pants away from you. She will try it, so be on your guard. Don't let her get away with it because every woman despises the man she can rule. You never saw a wife who loved the husband she could hen-peck.

Third. Do something to make her happy. Don't act as if being married to you was all the fun any woman could ask of life. Take her out and show her a good time at least once a week. Take an interest in her clothes and encourage her to dress as well as you can afford. Remember her taste. Bring her little gifts. Do something every day to show her that you think of her.

Fourth. Don't be fool enough to tell her about your former love affairs. Burn all your love letters and your old sweethearts' pictures before you are married and never boast of your conquests and what a devil you were among the ladies. And never, never praise another woman, not even your mother or your grandmother, to your wife. Don't be misled by her saying she has no jealousy in her nature.

Fifth. Don't make her do all the adapting that every young couple must make. Go fifty-fifty on it. Go with her to the symphony concerts if she is musical instead of expecting her to go with you to hear a jazz band. Make her mother as welcome when she comes to visit you as you would like to have your wife make your mother welcome.

Sixth. Take an interest in the housekeeping and show your wife how to run a budget. It is hard for a young wife to get up much enthusiasm over making a home if her husband never takes any part in it.

Seventh. Don't criticize. Women simply can't take it. Besides, it gets a man nowhere. If you knock your wife's cooking, she says, "Oh, what's the use?" and lets things go. If you make fun of her new dress, she goes out and buys one more expensive. And that's that.

Eighth. Remember that the one and only way to work a woman is by flattery. Praise your wife's pies, and she will turn into a chef. Tell her what a grand manager she is and she will pinch every nickel un-didly the buffalo howls. Descant on how broad-minded she is and she Ninth. Don't degenerate into being just a money-maker. Give your wife more of your time and less money. No woman can keep passionately in love with a cash register.

Tenth, and lastly. Be generous and kind. No woman can really love a tightwad or a brute. (Copyright, 1937)

A Little Saturday Talk

After I gave a talk in the Council Central school of Stratford-on-Avon, about 60 pupils wrote letters to me. The letters are interesting, and I'd like to print many of them. Since we haven't enough space for that, I shall give paragraphs from a few.

"When you are boating on the River Avon," writes a pupil who gives his name as R. Brookes, "you have to be careful because of shallow and rapids. It is worse if you are in a canoe. We have small steamers called 'rob-boys.' When a steamer comes down the river, it makes waves, and if you are in a canoe, you have to ride the waves."

"Eels are found in great numbers in the River Avon. They migrate from a place in the Atlantic thousands of miles from England. After living in the river four or five years, they go back to their native home."

I am glad Ray mentioned the eels in the Avon. These strange snake-like animals have an amazing life history. After being hatched from eggs laid in the Atlantic several hundred miles from Florida, they make their way across the ocean to England (also to other countries). Later they go back, and lay eggs from which other eels hatch. (For Travel section of your scrap-book.)

"People who know about boats have a punt for comfort, a rowing boat for speed, and a canoe for grace."

"A punt has a flat bottom. It can be worked either by a pole or by a paddle. It is a comfortable boat (for passengers), for it is fitted with long cushions and a back-rest."

Ray Timms tells us about fish and fishing, saying: "The River Avon is an ideal fishing ground. Anglers from large towns nearby come to enjoy the sport. Many of the actors at the Shakespeare theater spend their leisure hours fishing."

"The perch is a common fish in our river. It has very hard scales, and sharply spiked fins. The tench, roach and dace are also caught. The tench is a broken fish which lives in the mud at the bottom of the river."

Indoor Heat Hurts More Than Wind

BY ELSIE PIERCE
Skin Sensitive to Cold

A. W.: You say that your skin becomes painfully irritated with the first chill wind. There is no limit to the things that may cause peculiar reactions in individuals; some are sensitive to dust, some to dogs, to pollen and perfume. However, your case is not a very unusual one. Most skins are sensitive to cold and particularly to sudden changes in temperature, and it may be the sudden change between cold outdoors and steam-heated interior, more than the cold itself, that irritates your skin. Avoid washing your face with soap and water immediately before you go out or come in from outdoors. Use a cream for cleansing and a soothing, heavy emollient cream at night before retiring leaving a thin film on the skin overnight. Also use a foundation cream before applying make-up. Also avoid overheating your home—keep the temperature at about sixty-eight or seventy degrees, no more. Overheated interiors do more damage than cold winds; they exhaust the natural oil from the skin and strength from the entire body.

Make Eyes Look Larger
N. P.: I am very glad you wrote me before using the drops which you say your friend has been using on occasion to make the pupils of her eyes seem larger. This is a very dangerous practice when the layman undertakes to use such a preparation promiscuously. There is a reason for its use by physicians or eye specialists but even they use it rarely. Never tamper with the eyes, never use drops, except under a specialist's instructions. The only drops that may be used (but these will not dilate the pupils) are eye-bath or eye-wash drops—a boric acid or similar solution. Many women prefer to use such a lotion with dropper instead of eye-cup.

Lumps Under Skin
M. P.: Indeed, I know what you mean when you say "large little white lumps under the skin," as differentiated from ordinary whiteheads. But those white lumps may be one of some fifty odd defects — from the very slight to quite serious. By all means let your physician diagnose the ailment, before you attempt treatment yourself.

Spirit of Competition Evident in Bridge Test

BY ELY CULBERTSON

The national self-rating bridge examination, which has been running for about seven weeks, and which now is nearing its close, has revealed a wealth of interesting facts. Although, as I pointed out in my first announcement, the idea is essentially for readers to rate themselves, thousands took advantage of my offer to set their final rank. I expected great interest among the rank and file of bridge players in this examination (which henceforth will be an annual feature of my column), but the actual results have far surpassed my fondest hope. In my files are dozens of answers sent in jointly by husband and wife, with frank footnotes to the effect that each is striving every fibre to lick the daylight out of the other. In Utica there is one family of five—mother, father, two daughters, and a son—all sending in their answers daily. The pater familias warned me at the very outset to be careful of my marks, as a large prize hung on the issue. At a prominent New York corporation, the office force conceived the notion of converting the examination into a sweepstake, the eventual highest grade to collect the pot. All of which is a significant commentary on the American competitive spirit!

the envelopes to those who are particularly dear to you.

Dear Mrs. Post: When marking the gravestone of a clergyman, is not his ecclesiastical title used? I know a professional reference is ordinarily omitted, but is not the church different?

Answer: No, not even in the case of a clergyman should title be used. His name should be given as John Henry Good. Below it, however, there could be a line explaining that he was for thirty years the beloved pastor of Trinity Church.

Dear Mrs. Post: If the bride's long-sleeved gown makes it unnecessary for her to wear gloves, is it then proper for her attendants, whose dresses have short puffed sleeves, to wear them? I am thinking now of the rule that says the bride's attire should not be any more elaborate than those worn by the bride.

Answer: If the bride's attire is to carry flowers, gloves are unnecessary. They can of course be worn if you choose to have them do so, but at most weddings today gloves are worn neither by the bride, nor her attendants—not by the ushers nor even the groom. If the wedding is a very large and formal one—meaning cutaway coats or tails—then gloves are always worn by the ushers and also by the bridesmaids if their hands are not completely hidden by flowers. Sometimes they wear them even then but not unless their purses are much deeper than is usually the case.

Dear Mrs. Post: My niece is coming here to our house to have me give her a wedding. She is practically unknown here and her own friends live too far away to come to the wedding. How does one make up the invitation list under such difficulties?

Answer: Invitations should be sent to her intimate friends whether they are able to be present or not. Therefore, ask her that she send you her list immediately. It is always more flattering to receive an invitation than an announcement—and the fact that those who are invited can't come means merely that the bride (and groom) would like to have them at the wedding if it might be possible for them to come. You of course make your list of your own friends and the invitations are then sent to the combined list.

WICHMANN Furniture Company

Two's Company By MARGARET CLUON HERZOG

THE CHARACTERS Nina, a nice girl with flaxen hair, meets a young man at a party. David drives her home, confessing he crashed the party and is an automobile salesman. He has copper hair and a dog named Button. Honey, Nina's plump, youthful mother, brings home a new husband. Richard, Nina's stepfather, is charming, poised, dark-haired, well-tailored and Honey's junior by 10 years. Cordelia, Nina's closest friend. CHAPTER FOUR: STICK CLOSE TO HER! TONIGHT NINA DID NOT NOTICE her beautiful room, or drink it in appreciatively, as she usually did. She drew her things off over her head, cold-creamed her face, brushed her teeth and hair and opened the windows, in a sort of daze; and the minute she was in bed, she started to cry, softly. "Oh, daddy," she murmured into her pillow; and as the wintry dawn crept in, she was a little girl again, having her first serious talk with her father, about Honey. "But it would have been so easy for her to remember, daddy! I said "tan," so plainly, and she got green... and now I'll have to wait a whole week for another order, and your present won't be done for Christmas! I do think she might have... "Now, listen, youngster," she could absolutely see her tall thin father, with his sensitive mouth and kind, humorous eyes. "There are two kinds of people in this world: the serious, sensible kind, like Annie, who mend your clothes and look after you, and never forget things... and then there are people like your mother, who make all the fun and gaiety in the world. Now you couldn't expect Annie to make you scream with laughter, and think up wonderful new kinds of games, and have all the kids crazy about her, could you?... No. Well then, you mustn't expect your mother, who brings you so much of another kind of happiness, to be like Annie, as well. That's sensible, isn't it?" Nina had been able to see that it was. After that she had thought of Honey as having a very special sort of gift--as indeed she had--and had understood her much better. Never Been In Love Once or twice she had come upon her father unexpectedly, with an inexpressible sad look in his brown eyes, and she had wondered if Honey's special gift brought him as much happiness as it did others; but she had been too young to think very much about it. It was not until she was 16, and daddy had another little private talk with her, that she understood better. It had been in the library--daddy's room then--with rows of slightly musty books and dark green leather chairs and sofa. When he had called her in for that second talk about Honey, they had all known of his heart trouble--that he might go, suddenly, at any time. He said: "I want to tell you some things, Nina dear, that I wouldn't be telling you if I were a well man. I'll plunge in." He sighed. "You may, or may not have noticed that your mother has never been--in love with me. That's very different, you know, child, from caring for someone. Your mother cares for me a lot. As a young girl she was engaged to a man, and something went wrong... I practically browbeat her into marrying me." Nina had interrupted: "Oh, daddy, darling, you couldn't browbeat anyone!" "Well I did, just the same, youngster; and I don't feel badly about it because we have you as a result, and we've been awfully happy together. Of course I should have let her go to... ever met anyone else. But the point of all this is that your mother is still a Turn to Page 18.

KIMBERLY HIGH BEATS ST. JOHN IN CAGE OPENER

Kimberly High school basketball team rallied in the second half to defeat St. John of Little Chute last night in the first game in the Papermakers' new gymnasium. The score was 12 to 9. The above picture was taken in the second half and reveals the tension as the boys fought for possession of the ball under the Kimberly hoop. Among those in the picture are, left to right, J. Versteeg, St. John, No. 5; Weyenberg, Kimberly, No. 44; Hammen, St. John, No. 12; LaBerge, Kimberly, with only a 4 showing on his jersey; Weyenberg, St. John, No. 3; Boetz, St. John, No. 6; and R. Kimberly Cagers Open New Gymnasium With Victory Over St. John KIMBERLY — Kimberly High school celebrated the opening of the new gymnasium Friday evening by defeating St. John's, Little Chute, 12 to 9. Although the breaks failed to come in the first half the Papermakers tightened up in the last half to erase a defeat by the Hollanders last season.

Little Chute scored five points during the first quarter as Van Asten and Weyenberg dropped buckets and Boetz got a gift shot. Kimberly tried for two gifts shots but missed.

Vanden Boogaard started things off in the second period by dropping a free shot. Little Chute attempted to add scores twice during the period as Lamers and Van Asten came close with their shots. Parent, who came into the game at this point, got the ball and after dribbling it to the center of the floor, took a long shot for two points. As the whistle sounded for the end of the half the score was in Little Chute's favor, 6 to 3.

In the third period Vanden Boogaard connected with a gift shot and a basket while Van Dyke also made a free throw. The Little Chute boys were putting on everything they had as shots were tried from every place. Hammen tried for a long shot before the whistle sounded as Kimberly took the lead in that period, 7 to 6.

Protest Lead
In the last quarter the Papermakers kept their lead and added points for a safe margin. Vanden Boogaard again made two gift shots which were followed by a basket by Fleweger, who came in fast tossing from the side. J. Versteeg also connected with a bucket for the Chuters and Hammen scored a charity shot.

Next week the Papermakers will go to Little Chute for a return game.

In the first game Little Chute Bee squad defeated the Kimberly Bees, 19 to 2. The Papermakers scored their lone bucket in the first quarter as Little Chute showed two points in the opening period, 10 at the half and 15 in the third period.

The high school band lived things up during the quarters.

Chaff'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

IN ANOTHER column on this page or the next you'll find a couple of the most caustic paragraphs that have been typed on a typewriter in many a moon regarding the all-conference teams that were selected by the Fox River Valley Sports Writers association at a meeting here Thursday.

And because the selection was made in the customary manner and according to Hoyle of course there's no one to blame. Incidentally, the system was adopted a couple of years ago after a couple of the lads (sports writers), who could talk faster than others and cried about the fact they had to get at least one man on the team, did so to the dismay of a couple other scribes.

Perhaps the selection isn't perfect and that a much better team would have been selected. Green Bay East first squad (for the benefit of John Walter) but here's something for the boys to remember.

East and Appleton had the outstanding teams in the circuit. That left five other squads to fight among themselves and they played some real hall games, staged great battles and it's more than likely that a youngster who looked like a lemon against Green Bay East and Appleton, looked like a million dollars against the other schools. When the votes were compiled he naturally came out as a first team selection. Got onto the team and some Green Bay East had was probably shunted to a second or third squad.

Repercussions!!

BY JOHN WALTER

(Press-Gazette Sports Editor)
THE all-conference football team of 1937, selected last night at Appleton, represents the poorest judgment in the history of the Fox Valley, and the sooner the silly idea of selecting all conference teams by the present means is cut out, the better.

The second team, on any good day could beat the first all-conference string by two touchdowns or better, and everyone who saw Green Bay East in action this year knows it. East high, a team which won six consecutive conference victories, which rolled up 167 points while permitting nine—a touchdown against the third team and a 42-yard field goal—which scarcely permitted its opponents to cross its 40-yard line all season; a team which no rival came within two touchdowns of holding even—this team received no ends, tackles or backs on the all-conference team.

Even Donald Kolbus, the greatest lineman the valley has seen for many a day, failed to receive a unanimous vote for his position.

Sheboygan, a team with a paper mache line and a backfield that couldn't get out of a cardboard box with a time bomb, was handed three men on the first team, despite the fact that Sheboygan won only one game out of six and was smothered by East high 27 to 0, the score being that low only through East's generosity.

The all-conference idea has prospered for several years, and some pretty fair selections were made, but the current setup offers far too much chance for injustice. Several East high boys who helped bury Bergner and Harmsen of Appleton, and Kleinschmidt of Sheboygan, will wonder what it's all about when they read this year's farcical selections.

Here let us insert one philosophical note, for the boys who played fine football and didn't get the mention many fans will think they deserve. Many a great grid star will remain off the list, and many a player will survive to rip the socks off National pro league teams. There's a definite injustice in mythical teams, and what has happened in the Valley conference will be repeated sectionally and nationally many times.

Never thought Vernon Anderson would suffer the slaughter. The plucky West high leader and football captain, who started at end and finished at halfback, seemed destined to be buried in the flood of prejudicial ballots, but in this case at least justice prevailed, and Vernon got the first all-conference position he richly deserved.

But Red Patton, the most versatile back in the conference, a fine blocker, runner, pass receiver and a flawless defensive man, was shoved onto the second team, and lucky to be there. Little Benny Alard, who packs more football per size than anyone in the circuit, barely landed on the third string.

East's two regular tackles, John Messenger and Vernon Plinko, who outplayed everyone at end and positions all year long, received respectively a second team place and honorable mention. The latter honor, very dubious in its extent, also was handed Royal Dessart of West, another of the valley's toughest backs.

Maybe East didn't win the championship. Maybe those touchdowns that Noel Olson, the conference's individual scoring leader, and Don Joseph made shouldn't have counted any higher than the second team. Maybe Don Lamb is a third string fullback.

Maybe Red Walker and Bob Lefebvre aren't the sweetest pair of ends in the conference. Maybe they didn't outplay everyone they faced all season. Maybe it would be a good idea to forget this all-conference business before it gets any goofier, or else radically revise the whole thing so that a little more fairness can enter.

This year's sad eleven resulted from one of two things: A desire to chop down East high after its successful season, or just plain ignorance, because the Red Devils' record speaks for itself. They didn't win the championship without one of the finest teams in conference history. Or score all those touchdowns. Or smear all those opposing offenses.

Who the coaches and sports writers think did all that work? The band?

Pardon me if I sound peeved. I am.

Manawa Cagers Play Next Week

Show at Wittenberg Tuesday; Season's Outlook Is Dark

Manawa—With the opening basketball game against Hortonville out of the way, Coach Roy Bloomquist is pushing the Manawa High school cagers for their engagement with Wittenberg at that place, Tuesday evening, Nov. 23.

Prospects are far from bright for a winning aggregation at the local school as only two men, Keith Gehrke and Les Sabrowsky, have had much previous experience with the varsity. The rest of the team will have to be made up of some willing reserves of a year ago and some unusually promising but very verdant freshmen.

Against Hortonville Coach Bloomquist started Sabrowsky at center, Gehrke and Bruce Brown, a freshman, at the forward position, Mark Fitzgerald and Truck Sturm at guards. Others who saw action were Eddie Nolan and Toby Thomack, guards, George Brooks and Les Miller, centers, Leonard Behnke,

BY HARRY CHANDLER

(Manitowoc Herald-Times)
THE futility of selecting a satisfactory mythical all-conference team, was never more forcefully demonstrated than Thursday night when the ballots of coaches and sports writers of the Fox River Valley were opened at the Conway Hotel at Appleton.

When the votes were counted, it was found that Sheboygan, a sixth place club, had as many men on the first team as the unbeaten Green Bay East high squad, while Manitowoc, third place club, was denied first team recognition.

Moreover, East high with a record of scoring 167 points in six conference games, saw its touchdown-makers relegated to the second and third teams. East failed to place a single backfield man or an end on the first eleven. Some one even relegated Don Kolbus, East's great center, to the second team, as he fell short by a single vote of being a unanimous choice for first team—a distinction he richly deserved.

The first team, announced after the 14 ballots had been tabulated (one coach and one sport writer for each school), consists of three players from East high, three from Sheboygan, three from Appleton, one from Oshkosh and one from Green Bay West.

The vote was a stunning disappointment to the Manitowoc delegation at the meeting of the Sport Writers' association, to which coaches had also been invited.

Pattie McDonnell, of the Shipbuilders' slippery little backfield, lost out on a first team position by the narrowest of margins. A first team vote counted two points and a second team vote counted one point. Anderson of West, of the halfbacks, polled the heaviest vote. McDonnell and Jordan Kleinschmidt of Sheboygan were tied each with 13 votes. The position was awarded Kleinschmidt because of the fact that he had five ballots for first team to McDonnell's three.

Prior to last night's meeting a tie vote was always broken by the flip of a coin. The question of deciding by a coin or by counting the number of first team votes was taken up by the Sport Writers' association and the coin system was discarded. Thus McDonnell lost an opportunity to gamble on a first team berth by the flip of the coin.

LITTLE CHUTE—Goaded on by the prospect of winning a turkey for Thanksgiving day, besides a couple games and individual honors, Little Chute Business Men's league keglers turned in some excellent scores during the week's kegling at Wonders alleys.

The first shift saw the Lamers brothers fighting for the bird and they paced each other down the flight of three games with Clarence showing 16 more pins than Jerry and copping the honors. He had a 677 series while Jerry had a 681. A couple bad shots in the final game ruined Jerry. The second shift also produced a battle between team-mates with Herman Stark winning by six pins when he got a 635.

Peter Van Den Heuvel a 630 and Cussie Versteegen a 629.
Legion Wins Two
Aside from that the American Legion won two games from Haneagrafs when Beany Bongers rolled high series of 613 and a 227 game. For the losers, Jerry Lamers had a 601 series with a 235 set top game.

Van Rhyn Meats won a pair from the Bottling Works when Clarence Lamers got hot and rolled high series of 677 and high game of 234. Lett Jansen had a 625 series and 265 game for the losers.

Hammens Hotels copied two from the Hermesens Grocers. Emil Hinkens hit a 599 series and 244 game for the victors and Bob Gloude hit a 569 series and 255 game for the losers.

Hietpas Dairy upset the dope by winning two games from the league leaders, Miller High Life. Herman Stark rolled a 636 series and Peter Van Den Heuvel a 242 game for the victors.

High individual series scores were as follows: Clarence Lamers 677, Jerry Lamers 681, Herman Stark 635, Peter Van Den Heuvel 630, Cussie Versteegen 629, Lett Jansen 625, Ed Williams 619, A. P. Rock 616, Beany Bongers 613, Rev. J. Geyer 606, Ed Miller 606, Orville Bongers 606, and D. De Groot 601.

High game of the week was bowled by Lett Jansen with a record 265, second by Bob Gloude, 255, and third, J. Verhagen, 245.
High team series was rolled by American Legion with 2,995, Haneagrafs Grocers 2,960, and Bottling Works 2,946.

Signals Replaced by Names of Dance Steps

Sacramento, Calif. (AP)—College boys being college boys, Coach H. A. (Hack) Applequist at Sacramento Junior college doesn't expect them to remember mathematics on the football field.
So instead of calling a tiresome string of numbers, his quarterback orders the team to go into a big apple, a rhumba, hula or Charleston. It's so much simpler.
"It's all part of the psychology of coaching football," said Applequist.

WIN 16 STRAIGHT

Abilene, Tex. (AP)—Hardin-Simmons university won its sixteenth straight football game here yesterday, defeating Oklahoma City university, 26 to 0.

Goldberg Made Over to Handle Left Halfback Job

NEW YORK (AP)—Notes from our All-America folder: Marshall (Biggie) Goldberg, a scrapping of Pitt team, came to college as a left-handed passer and left-footed kicker but was made over so he could handle the left halfback job. . . Tony Matisi, veteran Panther tackle, is the strongest man to play for Pitt in Jock Sutherland's regime and the fastest big man since Jim MacMurdo in 1931. . . The best end on the Pitt squad and perhaps the best in the country, Bill Daddio, has been kept out of nearly all major action by a knee injury. . . He has one more year to go.

Davey O'Brien, 150-pound Texas Christian quarterback, has played all but 20 minutes of direct consecutive games and directly figured in two-thirds of Horned Frog offensive with his kicking, passing and running. . . Ohio State coaches rate Davey the "toughest little man" they've seen. . . Two all-stars who also rate classroom accolade are Andy Bersch, North Carolina's studious end, and Colorado University's famed Whitey White, who made Phi Beta Kappa this year. . . The Whizzer wants to follow his brother, Sam, to Oxford as a Rhodes scholar and give English Rugby a whirl.

The logical backfield companion for Fordham's Alexander Wojciechowski in the all-star unpronounceable class is Ray Mickusky, 210-pound fullback of the Case School of Applied Science. . . He's rated All-Ohio conference honors for two years and probably will make it three, including a bid for "Little All-America" distinction.

Villanova's play-wrecking duo John Wysocki at end and John Mellus at tackle, have been play-mates since they were four years old at Hanover, Pa. . . Only break in their grid partnership came when Wysocki delayed his college career one year, during which he worked in coal mines at Wilkes-Barre. . . Together they have knooled off five punts this season, four of which resulted in Villanova touchdowns.

W. HUGHES went on a scoring spree for Michigan during Big Ten league matches at Elks alleys last evening and scattered the maples for a high 250 game and 685 series. Northwestern collected two games from Chicago on a high team game of 1,017 and series of 3,982.

Competition tightened as Illinois dropped two games to Wisconsin with Fries pounding the pins for a 632 series on games of 211, 221 and 220. W. Fries hit 200 and W. Schultz had 201 for the winners while Riemus was high for the losers with a 206 and Froom hit 202.

Northwestern was led by James Balliet who snared a 650 series on games of 218, 218 and 216 as they won two games from Chicago. Brock had 211. G. Ward hit 205 and E. Koerner bowled 200.

Minnesota rung a 2-game win on Iowa as Fulton rolled 211 and S. Balliet totaled 580. Smith paced Iowa with a 221 game while J. Joyce had 215 and 200.

Indiana took two games from Ohio as Greason

Family Reunions Reminds Need for Right Memorials

Twin City Monument Works Able to Give Sound, Helpful Service

Thanksgiving Day is the day of reunions. Many families will gather together to renew family affections and to strengthen the ties that bind them together. Many families will also hold a reunion with those who have passed beyond. At the cemetery they will gather to join again in spirit with those beloved ones who sleep there. The memorial which stands there is the center of this reunion. It represents those absent and somehow it seems to bring them and their memories more intimately near. At each memorial a family finds its strongest common bond; at each tribute, on Thanksgiving Day as every day, a family may be truly reunited.

The memories we treasure today will fade, even during our own lives, and after we have gone, may be lost entirely. To preserve them, to record them as they deserve, they must be entrusted to a reminder that will remain through the years. The memorial will be that reminder, keeping memories beautifully and expressively. From generation to generation it will carry its story and, renew the remembrance in its care.

Even the smallest and most modest memorial is far better than no memorial at all for it will be something permanent to perpetuate the name and the memory of the person or family to whom it is dedicated. If you are interested in securing a memorial of the very finest type, a memorial beautiful in appearance, outstanding in quality, guaranteed to endure, at a price eminently fair and reasonable, then the Twin City Monument Works, 301-307 Main street, Neenah, can serve you most satisfactorily and completely.

This firm which manufactures and designs high grade memorials and mausoleums is headed by Charles J. Madison. This firm suggests that if you are interested in having a memorial for your family cemetery lot, it is wise to place your order now so that you can get the best of service and workmanship during the winter months when there is not the rush of business which always is evident in the early Spring and Summer months. A call to Neenah, 930-W, or a visit to their headquarters will give you further information on the purchase of a memorial or mausoleum.

Eagle Badges Will be Awarded to Two Scouts

Kenneth Killoren, 330 W. Seventh street, a member of Troop 13, has earned Eagle Scout ranking. It was announced today from the office of Walter Dixon, valley council scout executive. Killoren will receive his badge at a court of honor.

Lester Osterloft, scoutmaster of Troop 24, Clintonville, has been awarded Eagle Scout rating, Dixon reported.

Barrows to Broadcast At Milwaukee Luncheon

President Thomas N. Barrows of Lawrence College will broadcast from WTMM in Milwaukee at 1:10 Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 24, during a Milwaukee Civic club luncheon.

He will leave Milwaukee to attend the National Interfraternity conference in New York Friday and Saturday, Nov. 26 and 27.

Music Instrument Needs Repair by Competent Firm

Bieritz Firm Well Equipped to Restore Quality And Performance

No matter what a person purchases, there is, in almost every case, need for repair on this article at some time or other. Electrical appliances need to be given proper care and, in time, will require servicing on them. Other household articles, too, will require repair service in time, in order that they will continue to serve the owner efficiently. This is also true of musical instruments which, after a certain amount of use, will need to be given expert care in servicing so that their tone and beauty, so valuable in such delicate instruments, can be preserved.

The Bieritz Musical Instrument Repair service, located at 130 E. College avenue, Appleton, has built up an enviable reputation in the field of service and sale of musical instruments. The most modern shop, equipped with the latest equipment for repair service, makes their work the most exacting possible, guaranteeing to its customers quality repairs at the lowest possible cost.

Hollywood News And Gossip

By ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood—There has been no official census, but it seems to me more movie people would like to meet Clark Gable than any other star.

Gable isn't a recluse, nor hard to meet, but that's the way Hollywood is—a little pond where the big fish can swim around for years and not bump into each other socially or professionally.

Think that's exaggeration? Well, Joan Crawford and Spencer Tracy started work on "Mannequin" the other day, and Frank Borzage, directing, had to ask, "Why so reserved?"

"We've never been formally introduced," said Spencer.

"No, we haven't," smiled Joan, "and by the way, Mr. Tracy, would you mind introducing me to Mr. Borzage? We've never met either."

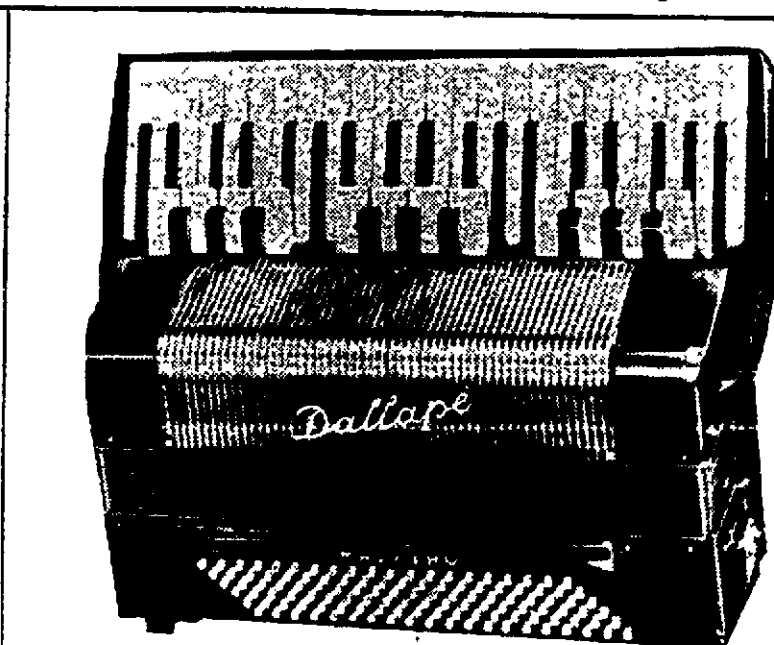

Lovers Were Introduced
It is more understandable when such things happen to a screen newcomer. I remember, for instance, Dick Powell had to be presented to Doris Weston before they started their first love scene in "The Singing Marine" and it happens that way every day.

Among the I-want-to-meet-Gable club members is Beverly Roberts, who also wants to meet Rosalind Russell, whom she considers the most intelligent actress she has seen on the screen. Beverly wants to meet Gable mainly because she saw him one day, during filming of "Cain and Abel," playing leapfrog with several unimportant players near the studio commissary. She also wants to meet Tyrone Power—but then what does actress do? Wendy Barries does, for one, and—write your own list.

Others in the aforementioned Gable club are Ann Sheridan and Wayne Morris. Ann works on the same lot with Errol Flynn, but hasn't met him. Wayne wants a chance to shine that grin on Lorena Young and Carole Lombard, but among the men he wants most to meet Gable and Ronald Colman. If Wayne meets Lombard, doubtless it can be arranged for him to meet Gable, or vice versa.

Joan would meet Garbo
You'd be surprised how many Hollywood names are on the rolls of the I've never met—Shirley club. Glenda Farrell, with a boy of her own, is counting on him to help strike her name off the list. Billy and Bobby Mauch, who've met Freddie Bartholomew, have offered their services where Freddie is concerned, but Glenda's still looking for a Temple opening. Another with the same idea is Frank McHugh. He wants to meet Shirley and he wants his own youngsters—Peter, Susan and Michael—to meet her too.

Probably because Garbo is considered on another plane, and social contact out of the question, players seldom mention her when asked whom they'd like most to meet. But Joan Blondell does. Joan knows practically everybody—except Garbo. She passed Greta one night in Santa Monica—yes, in the rain, but she figured it was not the time nor place to introduce herself.

Van Zeeland Studios Show Accordion Made to Sell at Price of Fine Piano

A thousand dollars—that's what it takes to own the "Stradivarius" accordions, the Dallape. Those who should know say that the amazing popularity of the accordion throughout the United States particularly, has resulted in the production of instruments of this calibre. There is a great variety of instruments of this calibre. There is a great variety of accordions on the market in a wide range of price and quality, but the costly Dallape tops the list at a thousand dollars—the price of a fine piano or motor car!

Refinements which justify so high a price for an accordion—in addition to its complicated structure of more than 5,000 parts—include a variety of tonal combinations such as those possible with the organ. In fact, many musicians compare the tonal quality of this instrument with that of the organ in richness and depth. And many organisms are deserting their instrument for the accordion because of its stability and consequent increased financial return.

Too, it is now considered a necessary addition to the dance orchestra, creating another lucrative field for the professional accordionist. Some of the topnotchers who are entertaining American radio fans and theatre-goers with their accordions today are:

Jerry Shelton, musical director of Voloz and Yolanda, world-famous dance team; Victor Colla, of George Hamilton's orchestra; Diamo Toniazzo of the "Four Californians"; Al Tracy with Waldorf's orchestra; Max Stelter, NBC staff artist; Lawrence Welk, popular orchestra director; William Switzer, noted organist; Don Orlando with the Sando Williams orchestra; Jerry Bieson of WTMM, Milwaukee, another prominent organist; Earl Barnes of the "Four Aristocrats"; Buddy Sievert of the "Gentlemen of Rhythm" and many others, too numerous to mention here.

It is almost incredible that the beautiful, stream-lined instrument of today evolved from the crude looking accordion known as its ancestor. This was made by a 17-year-old German boy, Christian Buschmann, in 1822, who called it the "Hand Aeolian." He failed to patent it, so in 1829 a musical instrument maker called Z. Damiani made and patented the first so-called accordion.

Universal Instrument
While the actual invention of the accordion is attributed to the German Buschmann and the Viennese Damiani, nearly every other country in the world comes in for a share of the honors in the development of the instrument as it is known today. The first keyboard and bellows in history date back as far as 170 B. C. when a Grecian invented an organ having keyboard and pipes supplied by bellows with water-compressed air. Reeds were first used by the Chinese in their "cheng", and the first reeds brought to Europe were from China and fashioned of pure gold.

England Claims Credit
The bass action was improved by Wheatstone, an English electrician; and later perfected by Dallape of Stradella, father of the thousand-dollar accordion which bears his name. The present bass system is, therefore, known as the Stradella system. The piano keyboard was adapted for use in the accordion by Socian, an Austrian.

To Italy goes the recognition for many other improvements, including the switch mechanism which allow for a variation of tonal combinations. America, too, claims a goodly share of credit for recent refinements—particularly the smart modern stream-lined styling. Indeed, the accordion is a truly universal instrument in origin . . . and its present widespread and ever-growing popularity throughout the world has established it as the universal instrument in use as well.

A visit to the Van Zeeland Music Company, 106 North Oneida street, will enable you to see and hear this world's finest accordion.

Strikers March Out of Pontiac Auto Body Plant

Hope to Resume Peace Parley as Martin Leads Evacuation

VOTE TO LEAVE

Men are Reported Ready To Return to Their Jobs

Pontiac, Mich. — (AP) — Strikers who had held the General Motors Fisher body plant here since Wednesday evening marched out at 10:30 A. M. (CST) today, led by Homer Martin, international president.

Martin, who entered the plant at 9 A. M., C.S.T., said when he emerged that the strikers had voted unanimously to evacuate the plant. He said the company would be notified at once that the men had left and that he would attempt to open negotiations on grievances which caused the strike.

The strike, which began without warning Wednesday when a few hundred members of the night shift refused to work because the company insisted upon the suspension of four men whom it blamed for a previous unauthorized strike, ended just as unexpectedly.

Strike Unauthorized

The men had refused to heed appeals of the international officers and of the international executive board, which was summoned into emergency session yesterday by Martin. The board recessed at 8:30 A. M. until 2 P. M. after issuing a statement describing the strike as "unauthorized and unsanctioned."

That statement came after 23 hours of nearly continuous conferences. Although one striker, guarding entrance to the plant, said the men would "turn a fire hose" on Martin if he should appear, Martin and his secretary, Miss Vivian Fox, went directly to the plant in a taxicab from the board meeting. Leonard Netzorg, Detroit U.A.W.A. attorney who accompanied them into the plant, said he understood the strikers had invited Martin to appear before them.

The international president was reported to have told the men that their strike "jeopardized the very life" of the union.

Netzorg said the men gave Martin a respectful audience, but asked numerous questions when he completed his speech.

Ready for work

When he emerged, Martin said that the men are ready to go back to work any time it is up to the corporation when they want to start operations.

He declined to say whether he had promised the strikers that the union would fight for the retention of their jobs and for the reinstatement of four men whose suspension the company demanded for alleged leadership in a previous unauthorized strike.

He said all members of the Pontiac local would attend a mass meeting late today.

Shortly before Martin reached the plant, the strikers permitted a dozen company officials, who had been in the plant overnight, to depart.

After two meetings that lasted throughout the night between committees of the sit-downers and the international board, the board issued a statement commending "the patience" of the striking employees, but asserting that "strikes of this kind will not be tolerated."

Unsanctioned, unsanctioned, and "contrary to the UAW constitution, likely to jeopardize the position of the union."

Germany Will Resume Drigible Experiments

Washington — (AP) — The German government, undaunted by the disaster to the airship Hindenburg, hopes to resume experimental dirigible flights to the United States next year.

This was disclosed today when the state department referred to the commerce and navy departments a formal request from German Ambassador Hans Dieckhoff for a new permit for landing in this country.

German officials said the reich government expects to renew its experimental service in the spring with the giant new airship "LZ-130." This service is intended to determine the feasibility of a regular dirigible passenger - mail-express schedule between the United States and Germany.

The "LZ-130," designed as a sister ship of the ill-fated Hindenburg, is nearing completion at Friedrichshafen, Germany.

Germany is said to have hopes of obtaining non-inflammable Heli-um gas from the United States for the operation of the "LZ-130." An application for a supply is expected soon from Berlin.

Among scheduled speakers today was Mrs. Lawrence Smith of Racine, Wis.

President May Offer Plan to Boost Housing

Ponders Proposals to Halt Business Recession

CHANGE IN PROGRAM

Congress Is Expected to Get Building Suggestions

Washington — (AP) — President Roosevelt, informed officials said today, may send to congress this week some suggestions for stimulating private building.

He is understood to have considered several proposals for handling this phase of his program to check the business recession.

One was reported to be authorization of a mortgage corporation to mortgage companies organized to furnish capital for large scale housing projects. The R.F.C. would match dollar-for-dollar funds put up by private capital.

Another was an increase in the percentage of the cost of a small home which may be financed through a mortgage insured by the Federal Housing Administration.

Advocates of this program contend many prospective home-builders are deterred by lack of funds from making the 20 per cent down payment now required for F.H.A. financing. They would increase to 30 per cent the amount which could be insured by the F.H.A.

Construction Program

Along with this effort to stimulate industry, the president is expected to call in heads of leading utilities companies to discuss a possible vast construction program in this field.

This construction would be undertaken, utility spokesmen have said, if there were assurance the administration would erect no "competing" plants, ease the public utility holding company act and make other concessions.

Reports that Mr. Roosevelt would send congress a message outlining possible means of stimulating residential building aroused speculation over the question of whether he would mention taxes.

The United States Chamber of Commerce's housing conference last week asserted the undivided profits tax was retarding building. Wide sentiment for immediate modification of this levy has been expressed in congress.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) is expected to outline a recovery program in opposition to the president's in a nationwide radio address tonight.

He has been studying a system of "incentive taxes" designed to encourage industry to divide profits with workers. Companies would be given tax credits for profits released to workers.

One-Armed Man Admits Burglary

Arrested After He Bests Green Bay Man in Street Fight

Green Bay, Wis. — (AP) — For a man with only one arm, Alfred Ebeling, 41, Chicago, does all right for himself. He was arrested last night after engaging in a fight with Ben Simono, Green Bay, as the result of which Simono is in St. Vincent hospital with a deep scalp wound, a brain concussion and a black eye.

Further questioning, police said, brought from Ebeling, the admission that he had burglarized the Griddle Grill on Main street the night before, forcing the front door, and leaving through the rear door with some tobacco and candy. He was drunk at the time, police said he told them.

He was brought into police court this morning on a charge of creating a disturbance, pleaded guilty and was placed on probation since he was already in custody on the burglary charge. He was to be arraigned in municipal court on that count this afternoon or tomorrow.

In addition, Simono may press an assault and battery charge against him although Ebeling insists that Simono was the aggressor in the fight.

Ebeling was recently transferred here as a telegraph operator. He is said to have a wife and children in Chicago.

Baby Swallows Pin But Is Winning Fight for Life

Physicians today were apparently successful in their fight to prevent poisoning from an open safety pin lodged in the stomach of 14-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence H. Reinke, 803 N. Drew street, since she swallowed it in a freak accident late Friday afternoon until this morning.

The course of the pin, which is about 14 inches long, had been followed by frequent x-ray pictures and it was determined this afternoon that it had passed from her stomach and an operation would be unnecessary. The child was removed to its home but close observation will be required for several days, it was said.

Mrs. Reinke was pinning the infant's stockings to her underwear when an older brother picked up

Real Hunters Would Like to Catch That Fellow, Too, Ervin

Ervin Schroeder, who lives on Highway 45 eight miles west of Appleton, can tell you a thing or two about sportsmanship and how some men just don't have it and how he'd like to pound it into one, if he could find him.

The state conservation department gave Schroeder 15 handsome cock pheasants to release on his property. This morning he took them out to make their fortunes.

He returned to the house. He just got inside the door when he heard a shot. He ran outside. A man was just climbing into a car on the highway, a gun in one hand and one of Schroeder's cock pheasants in the other. He drove away too rapidly for Schroeder to read the license plate on the car.

Crop Control Bill Reaches Senate Today

All Limits on Cost are Swept Aside by Committee

WELCOME BILL

First Item on President's Special Session Bill

Washington — (AP) — Crop control legislation reached the senate today, but in a form disregarding President Roosevelt's mandate against increased farm expenditures without additional revenue.

Wary from two days and nights of almost continuous deliberation, the senate agriculture committee completed the bill last night by sweeping aside all limits on cost.

Committee members estimated the measure as drafted would raise the present $500,000,000 annual cost of farm benefits by $150,000,000 to $300,000,000. They made no effort to write in revenue provisions, since all tax legislation must originate in the house.

Democratic leaders welcomed the bill's first item on the president's special session program — a measure of interrupting the anti-lynching filibuster. The anti-lynching bill will have the right-of-way after a vote on the farm program.

In an effort to speed on his whole program, which includes wage hour, executive reorganization and regional planning legislation, the president talked this morning with congressional leaders.

Majority leader Barkley (D-KY.) of the senate said the general situation was canvassed "with a view of hastening things as much as possible." Vice President Garner, Speaker Bankhead, and Majority Leader Rayburn (D-Tex.) of the house were the others who talked with the chief executive.

The long-delayed crop control measure, still without a counter-part in the house, provides for a government-farmer partnership in a combination voluntary and compulsory acreage and marketing control program. This was buttressed by federal loans and subsidies for farmer compliance with soil conservation and "ever-normal" granary provisions.

Spending Pendent

A house subcommittee studying wheat control also developed a spending pendent in recommending an appropriation of $85,000,000.

280 Jobless as Casino Closes Unexpectedly

New York — (AP) — The French Casino, Broadway night club where Magda de Fontanges, now at Ellis Island fighting deportation, had hoped to appear, unexpectedly closed early today, depriving 80 girl entertainers and 200 waiters of their jobs.

John J. Sullivan, second deputy police commissioner, had earlier banned Magda's appearance in a night club, but a member of the syndicate which owns the casino said the closing was in no way connected with the ban.

Magda was barred on charges of moral turpitude when she admitted she shot and wounded Count Ploniet de Chambrun, former French ambassador to Italy, who she charged was interfering in an affair between her and Benito Mussolini, she had expected to get $50 a week at the French casino.

Last Tuesday three tax warrants totalling $14,929.53 were filed in the county clerk's office against the casino. Paul Weisman, auditor for the casino, denied it owed the taxes.

Princess Married to Wrestler Boy Friend

London — (AP) — Princess Babu youngest daughter of the British Rajah of Sarawak, was married today to her wrestler boy friend, Bob Gregory, despite her father's threat to disinherit her.

The princess, dressed in a brown suit and wearing orchids, was married under her English name, Valeria Nancy Brooke. Gregory gave his occupation as a "physical culturist."

It was while giving a cabaret exhibition in this city that he met Princess Babu. The Rance introduced them.

Gregory will give up wrestling, it was reported, because Princess Babu dislikes it. It was reported he planned to start a modern gymnasium.

Fitch's automobile ran into a ditch at a curve, and he was unable to drive it back on the road. While standing on the highway, he was struck by another car driven by a Watertown man who Coroner August H. Kriek said apparently was blinded by the lights of other machines.

Fitch's body was taken to the Weiss funeral home in Milwaukee. Miss Gritzmacher died of injuries she received when a large truck backed over her while she was crossing a driveway in the rear of a Wausau hotel Saturday.

Hill was killed in a motor car collision near Ironwood, Saturday.

Coughlin Won't Return to Air

Asks Followers to Abandon Efforts to Have Broadcasts Resumed

Detroit — (AP) — Rebuked by Pope Pius XI through the apostolic delegate in Washington, the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, pastor of the Shrine of the Little Flower in Royal Oak, Mich., today asked his friends and followers to stop their efforts to have his radio broadcasting resumed.

Father Coughlin's appeal, issued through his offices in Royal Oak, said: "I have read the statement of his excellency, Amleto Cicognani, the apostolic delegate, as carried in the daily press.

"As a loyal priest of the Catholic church I wish to state publicly, as I have stated many times privately, that I deplore deeply the public agitation which has been caused by the cancellation of my radio broadcasts."

"In the spirit of loyalty to my church I urge all my friends and followers to stop the holding of mass meetings or the sending of letters or telegrams to the excellency, the archbishop of Detroit, or to the Holy See, with the design of securing the resumption of these radio broadcasts."

The pope's statement described the action taken by Archbishop Edward J. Sheil of Detroit in ordering Father Coughlin to cease his public criticism of President Roosevelt as "just and timely" and declared that each bishop "has not only the right but the duty to supervise Catholic teaching in his diocese."

Limping Negro Held for Questioning in Murder

Milwaukee — (AP) — Police today held a limping Negro for questioning in the investigation of the murder of Jonas Traxler, 72, who was beaten to death in his North Twelfth street liquor store Nov. 17.

The Negro, limping from bullet wounds in both legs which he said had resulted from a "little ruckus" two years ago, was picked because he resembled the description of a tall Negro said to have entered the Traxler store a short time before the aged proprietor was found dead. Three other Negroes also were held for questioning today.

LaFollette Foes Unite In Effort to Win State Offices Next November

LaFollette Says Party Names are Meaningless Now

Governor, Back From Hospital, Says His Party Will be Active

New York — (AP) — Governor Philip F. LaFollette of Wisconsin, assailing old "party line" politics as meaningless, declared yesterday "the Republican and Democratic parties are now outmoded."

"The rank and file of voters are no longer interested in party labels," he said, in an interview, on his arrival with Mrs. LaFollette on the United Fruit Liner Veragua from Colon, Panama.

"The politicians have tried valiantly to keep the old party lines intact, but they have become a matter of Tweedledum and Tweedledee. Whenever the voters get a chance to vote for a candidate whose records have a real meaning, they simply step across party lines."

Ahead of Politicians

"The people are ahead of the politicians. They are much more interested in individuals and issues than in party labels."

The Wisconsin executive, who appeared pale and tired, said he was "still weak" from a severe attack of influenza which forced him to interrupt a holiday cruise to South America three weeks ago. Stricken en route, Gov. LaFollette was taken from the cruise ship and spent more than two weeks in the United States government hospital at Col-

He said he was completely out of touch with all national political activities, but he hailed the recent re-election of Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York as showing "the people don't give a damn about the politicians."

His Party Active

Echoing La Guardia's victory dictum that political machine government was "doomed forever," Gov. LaFollette declared:

"For years we have had a political line in this country that dated back to the Civil war. The Republican and Democratic parties are now outmoded. The old last doesn't fit any more."

Governor LaFollette said the Progressive party, in which he is an active leader, would function "more militantly now than ever" following La Guardia's sweeping victory on a "non-political" fusionist ticket.

The Wisconsin executive planned to go to Washington, D. C., to visit his brother, United States Senator Robert M. LaFollette, and then return to his state capital at Madison.

Postpones Trip To Warm Springs

President Confined for Seventh Day With Tooth Trouble

Washington — (AP) — President Roosevelt, on the advice of his physician and dentist, cancelled today his Thanksgiving trip to Warm Springs, Ga., but made plans to go there and to the Florida coast on a fishing trip when he regains his strength.

Stephen T. Early, a White House secretary, said the president probably would leave for Miami the latter part of this week, or early next, for four or five days of rest and then go to Warm Springs for a belated dinner with the infantile paralysis patients at the foundation there.

The president's general condition was good and temperature normal. Early said, but that the abscessed gum still needed treatment.

The president stayed in his bedroom and study today for the seventh consecutive day on account of the tooth trouble.

He resumed his normal conference schedule, however, by conferring first with congressional leaders and arranged to receive others later in the day.

Nation's Trade Treaties Have Two Main Objectives

Washington — (AP) — The administration's system of reciprocal trade treaties, to which Secretary Hull now proposes to add Great Britain, has two objectives:

1. To improve the United States position in world commerce.
2. To increase the exchange of goods between all nations.

The program is based on the theory that equal treatment for all rather than preferential practices between nations is the most effective means of removing discriminatory restrictions now clogging many channels of trade.

Hull contends that only by stimulating trade everywhere can individual nations attain the stabil-

Garner Gets Mixed Up About His Age On 68th Birthday

Washington — (AP) — Vice President Garner wanted to argue on his birthday anniversary today that he was 68 years old and not 69.

It was not until he was shown a copy of the "Biographical Directory of the American Congress" proving he was born on Nov. 22, 1868 that he admitted he was wrong.

"By golly," he said, "I can't keep up with those things. Don't I have enough on my hands as it is?"

The vice president's greeting on his anniversary was: "I hope to be here when I'm 70—that's all."

Garner is in excellent health. A few days ago both he and President Roosevelt were suffering from tooth ache. The vice president had two molars extracted.

Delegates Draft New Statement on Orient Conflict

Document May Bring Brussels Conference to Close

Brussels — (AP) — United States Ambassador-at-Large Norman H. Davis and British Delegate Viscount Cranbourne worked today on the draft of a new statement on the Chinese-Japanese conflict which may bring the Brussels conference to a close.

The documents under discussion still must gain approval from French delegates, who originally planned to return to Brussels Saturday but put off their arrival until noon today.

The statement prepared by British and American delegates was a historical record of the conference's efforts to obtain peace in the Orient. It was understood to include nothing that could be construed as effective aid to China.

Conference delegates virtually admitted none of the nations represented at the meeting was in a position to take effective action to halt the Chinese-Japanese conflict.

Dr. Koo expressed "bitter disappointment" over the drafted historical record, said it fell far short of what China had hoped for, and added he must preserve his attitude at the afternoon meeting until he had time to consult his government.

Course for China

He indicated one possible course for China would be to propose that the whole affair would be referred back to the advisory committee of the league of nations.

It was learned that the draft contained a provision for reconvening the conference on the motion of two or more signatory powers.

The Italian delegate, Count Luigi Aldrovandi - Marsceotti, expressed his intention to attend today's session despite his statement at the last meeting a week ago that Italy would "reserve her attitude" regarding future conference developments.

He was expected to maintain the same position he adopted earlier by voting against a resolution because it criticized Japan.

Japanese awaited developments with patience. Although Japan was signer of the Nine-Power treaty under which the conference was called, she twice refused invitations to participate in conference proceedings.

Halt Unloading of Rice From British Steamship

Shanghai — (AP) — The possibility of a new Japanese-British incident developed here today when Japanese naval authorities prevented the British steamer Kaying from unloading rice originating at Saigon French Indo-China, pending investigation of the cargo's status.

The Japanese said their understanding was that the cargo, imported under a military permit, was not paying duty and that the consignee was the central trust of China, a Chinese government agency.

Fox River Valley Men Among Leaders at Coalition Meeting

N A M E COMMITTEE

Won't Meddle in Legislative Contests, Convention Decides

Post President Madison Bureau Madison — Two political parties, traditionally opposed to each other, today are at least partially united in a fusion movement to drive the LaFollette party out of power in Wisconsin. The long-discussed Republican-Democratic coalition became a partial reality over the weekend here.

Fused by a burning rage at what they called "the baleful influences" of a radical LaFollette "dictatorship" which is strangling "government of the people," an assortment of 100 Republicans and Democrats, abetted by unexpected delegations of "true blue" Progressives and Coughlin-Lemke Union party disciples met here over the weekend to lay groundwork for a coalition movement which will strive desperately to drive the LaFollette-Socialist combine from the statehouse next year.

These four diverse elements, with Republicans predominating, agreed to pool their resources in 1938 to end the division of conservative votes which has made victory repeatedly possible for the Progressives.

Lots Of Oratory

Functioning with surprising smoothness, the convention in business like order settled down to its serious business, fortified with a good deal of zealous oratory and perfected a working arrangement by which a common cause against continued government by LaFollette will be made.

Essentially the procedure agreed upon is this:

An executive committee of 70 men and women will meet at least 90 days before the 1938 primary election and select a single coalition slate of candidates for the five state offices, governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, secretary of state, and state treasurer. No attempt will be made to meddle in the local legislative or congressional elections. The great enemy will be Governor Phil LaFollette and his statehouse lieutenants.

The candidates selected will file in one group on both Democratic and Republican tickets. After the votes have been counted, the coalition candidates will become the candidates of whatever party has given them the highest number of votes in the primary.

The other party, which may be either Democratic or Republican, will put up a dummy candidate to fill out its ticket and get enough ballots to fill the legal qualifications for retaining party status in the state.

Politicians, ever realists, realize well that the plan, although it looks simple enough on paper, has its drawbacks, but it was the best they could do. It rather overlooks the actions of the official Republican and Democratic state committees, which did not participate in the coalition meeting, and which will certainly select their own candidates for the respective tickets.

Problems Ahead

Some sponsors of the coalition move honestly admitted that a successful coalition is far from achieved. And competent observers, puzzled at the movement from the beginning, withheld judgment. The difficulties inherent in a fusion campaign are many, they pointed out.

One of the movement seemed to have gotten off on the right foot, so that it may conceivably be a real figure in next year's elections.

And too, although the conference specifically pledged itself to refrain from participation in congressional elections, it has been made clear that the big bosses of both old parties, John D. M. Hamilton and James H. Farley, frown on the movement.

In order to begin immediately and to get a head start on their common Progressive enemies, the convention picked a slate of prominent leaders who will be the nucleus of the executive committee of 70. They are Dr. F. M. Corry of Menasha, one of the prime movers in the conference; James Kerwin of Milwaukee; Joseph Seftenberg of Oshkosh; Roland J. Steine of Milwaukee; Robert Caldwell of Madison; A. D. Strout of Manitowish; William Hazeltine of Ripon; Willis E. Donley of Menomonie; and Joseph F. Walsh of Potosi.

This group will choose the remainder of the committee of 70, including 40 men and 30 women, evenly distributed by congressional districts. Other members of the committee will be announced at a meeting at Stevens Point within three weeks.

Pondering during the winter, the committee of 70 will meet next spring and draft a slate of coalition candidates.

The conference resolutions committee was composed of 12 persons: Republicans, Glenn W. Blumenthal; Burlington; Robert Caldwell; Madison; J. Harold Bumby; Ripon; Mrs. George Greeley; Oshkosh; William L. Crow, Appleton; Democrats,
